Second Airline Murder Hearing

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—Genereux Ruest, the second man to be charged with murder in the Sept. 9 "bomb plot" crash of an airliner at Sault au Cocheon, Quebec, which killed 23 persons, appeared for preliminary hearing in court today.

Ceylon Bakers To Confer On Canadian Flour

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuter)—Food Minister A. Ratnayake said today he proposed to call a conference of bakers to seek their advice about quality and grade before the Ceylon government made any more purchases of flour from Canada or elsewhere.

His action is the result of protests by Ceylonese bakers that Canadian flour imported by the government was of poor quality.

Consider Red Offer To Sell West Grain

GENEVA (AP)—The United States told the Economic Commission for Europe Tuesday it is willing to co-operate "in further consultations" on the offer of the Soviet Union to make large-scale sales of grain to western Europe.

hanged June 23. The date was changed to Jan. 12 after he had made the statement, contents of which have not been divulged.

The prosecution claimed Guay engineered a bomb plot to wreck a Canadian Pacific airliner and kill his wife, a passenger. He was accused of intending to collect insurance purchased before the flight and then marry a 19-year-old restaurant waitress.

Senate Crime Group After Wire Bookies

Follow Evidence Of Western Union Men

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate crime investigators set out today after big-time bookmakers who take bets by telephone.

Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said his special Senate crime committee has been in touch with Missouri authorities who uncovered evidence of "betting-by-wire" in recent raids.

He said he asked the Missouri officials to let his committee see the records they seized and that they promised to co-operate.

Acting on a tip from Governor Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, the Missouri authorities conducted a raid in Wellington, Mo., June 7 and found old telegrams on file indicating the small-town bookie did a daily business of nearly $50,000.

The records indicated Western Union office managers all over the country were solicited to act as agents for bookmaking. The evidence included an instruction sheet which told company's employees how to handle bets.

According to Missouri officials, the office managers were offered a 25 per cent "cut" of the bookmaker's "take." Western Union quickly announced that such gifts or commissions were against its rules.

Jesse Binga Dies In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Jesse Binga, who rose from bootblack to millionaire bank president only to fall into obscurity after his bank failed in 1930 and he served an embezzlement sentence, died Tuesday.

The 85-year-old negro, once the leader of Chicago's south side negro district, succumbed to injuries suffered in a fall.

Truth, Consequences Transferring To CBS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Radio's Ralph Edwards, an NBC star for 10 years, is taking his comedy quiz show "Truth or Consequences" to CBS. In a deal reported to involve $1,000,000 a year, the Philip Morris Cigarette Company bought both television and radio rights to the program from the Procter and Gamble Company. Edwards will begin his CBS programs in September.

Scour Germany For G.I. Thug

MUNICH, Germany (UP)—Hundreds of heavily-armed police with orders to shoot on sight searched through Munich and the Bavarian countryside today for Germany's public enemy No. 1, Oklahoma badman Homer Cook, who broke out of jail for the third time in two months.

U.S. military police were ordered: "Don't ask any questions. Fill him full of lead." The 27-year-old Cook, a 200-rubles from last year. He also said there will be a sharp increase in capital expenditures. This is regarded here as demonstrating Soviet determination to step up its economic program substantially.

Total expenditures of 427,900,000 rubles should leave a surplus of 4,100,000,000 rubles as against a surplus last year of 24,700,000,000 bushels.

Zverev said last year that the defence budget estimate was 19 per cent of the total, but apparently he did not mention that Tuesday night.

Last year's Soviet budget called for an equivalent of $1,000,000 less than this year's defence total, however.

pound, six-foot-one former boxer, ripped a bar from a window of the Dachau prison library, leaped outside and dashed across a field into the Bavarian woods just after dark Tuesday night.

He scaled three walls, one 12 feet high and topped with barbed wire. A prison guard said he took aim at Cook but that his rifle jammed.

A cold rain fell throughout the night. Cook, with no money and clad only in cotton trousers and an undershirt, was expected soon to make some break for food and clothing.

U.S. and German military police, led by bloodhounds, hunted him throughout the night.

Their chase took them to a displaced persons camp near Dachau shortly after midnight. Terrified residents of the camp were awakened by 50 soldiers and policemen armed with carbines and pistols. No resident admitted seeing Cook, however, and a thorough search failed to show a trace of him.

The last time he was seen was at 3:45 a.m. just as dawn was nearing. A soldier said he saw Cook dash across a road in Dachau and plunge into the underbrush.

Cook was wearing only one shoe, the soldier said. He had lost the other just outside the prison.

Only Way To Win Now Is To Build Defences

Must Aid Europe, Hoffman Declares

WELLESLEY, Mass. (UP)—The only way to win "this present struggle with the Kremlin" is to rebuild western Europe's military and economic defences so no aggressor would dare attack, according to Economic Co-operation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman.

Speaking at Wellesley College's 75th anniversary celebration, Hoffman said the "cold war" drained the free world's resources, but it was the only alternative to surrender or appeasement to Soviet tyranny.

"I have small patience with those who think it should be a shooting war, the 'let-drop-a-bomb-on-Moscow-and-get-it-over-with-school' of thought," he said. "That suggestion is fired at me on occasion and my answer is always that I have no heart for world war III."

The goal of the free world's cold war with Russia, he said, was to "help other people remain free and gain in strength." He said the west's cold war was one of rebuilding rather than destroying.

FLOOD DEATHS MOUNT TO 60

TOKYO (UP)—Heavy rains caused new floods and landslides in Japan today, sending the death toll during the past week to 60. Latest reports added three dead and three missing to the list of casualties.

Would 'Protect' Youth From Booze

VANCOUVER (CP)—A two-pronged attack to "protect" youth from liquor was advocated Tuesday night by Dr. Floyd C. Carrier, executive director of the Washington Temperance Association.

"It is primarily a moral problem," he told the annual convention of the British Columbia Temperance League, "and we must reach the young people where they are and give them the facts about alcoholism."

"At the same time, 'we must protect them through legislation,'" Dr. Carrier said "liquor interests in the United States are spending $200,000,000 a year to get the boys and girls of today into the upholstered sewers tomorrow."

Bid Betters Award By Conciliation Board

VANCOUVER (CP)—The union policy committee guiding 32,000 British Columbia coastal loggers met today to decide if union-shop principles are worth a $1,000,000-a-day strike.

A strike is scheduled for the province's leading industry, worth $360,000,000 a year, at midnight tonight.

More than 160 coastal operators, represented by Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., Tuesday night made their "final offer." A union shop, paramount demand of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O. C.C.L.), was not included. A 17-cent-an-hour wage increase was another demand.

What the operators offered in 11th-hour negotiations called by the B.C. Labor Relations Board was a wage boost of 12½ cents an hour, greater union security than previously offered and a five-day, 40-hour work week.

Employers proposed basically the same form of maintenance of membership contained in labor agreements existing in British Columbia's pulp and paper industry.

This means all woodworkers now members of the I.W.A. who become members after the signing of a new contract must maintain membership as a condition of employment. Conciliation board's unanimous decision recommended this provision.

NOW $1.08 The conciliation board award, refused by the I.W.A., offered a wage increase of 9 cents an hour. The current basic rate in the industry is $1.06. The award was accepted by the operators.

Time and a half for Saturday and Sunday work also will be paid if the union accepts the "final offer."

A strike would disrupt B.C.'s economy. The lumber industry brings in about 45 per cent of the province's income.

A strike probably would send lumber prices soaring. The current price is between $55 and $60 a thousand board feet.

Says Teen-Age Gangs Problem Big Challenge

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wild teen-age gangs, a growing problem in Canada since the end of the war, are a "challenge to our faith in people," the Canadian Conference on Social Work was told here.

These were the words of Saul Bernstein of Boston University, who prescribed an "inside track" method—obtaining the co-operation and trust of youths—in dealing with hoodlum gangs.

"It's impossible to solve the 'gang problem' in any city without the co-operation of the gangs themselves," he said. "All aspects must be thoroughly probed—then marshal all the help possible to combat the menace."

"Remember, you're not trying to destroy the gang. You're seeking the gang lever with which to work."

"Basically, all people are worthwhile," Mr. Bernstein concluded. "The gang problem is a challenge to our faith in people; to our skill, and to our pocket books—but it's not the cost it would be if the final end to the gang's behavior is a long prison term."

Four Buildings At Vancouver Burned

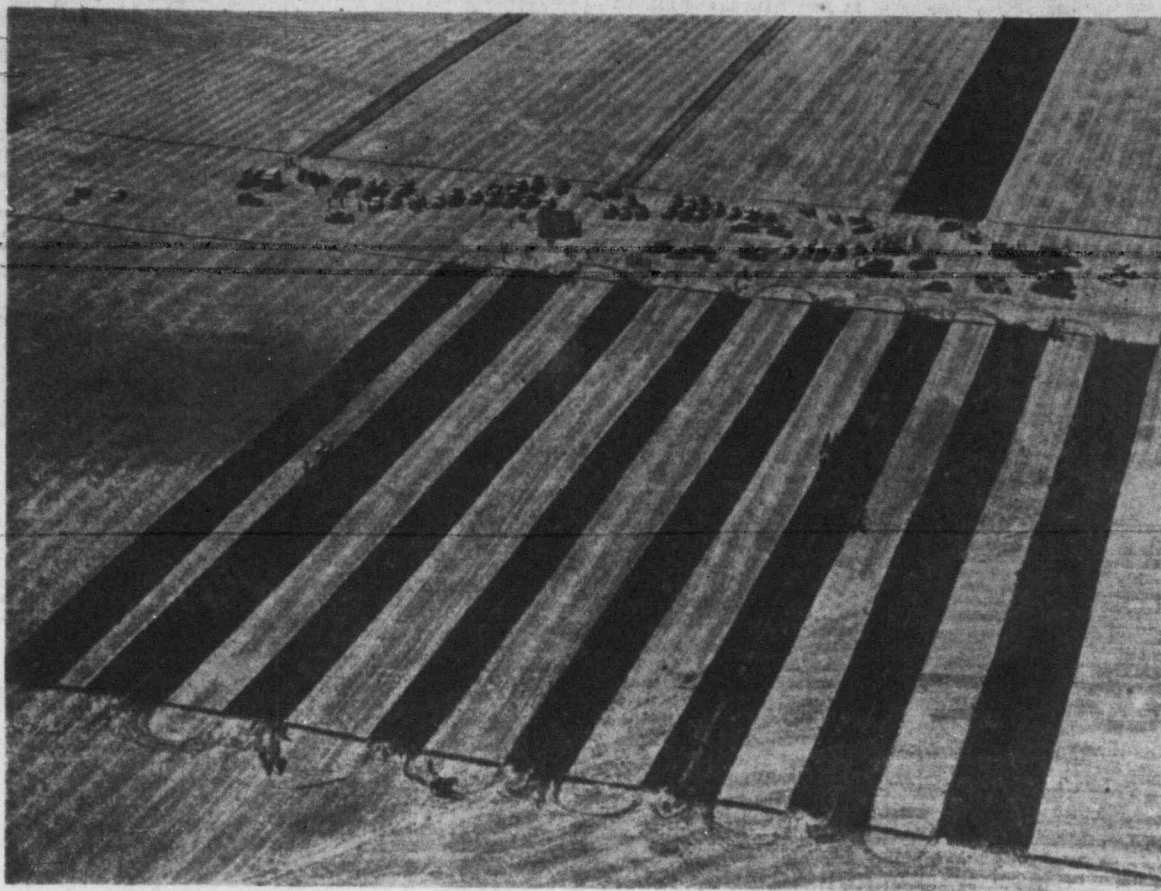

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fire Tuesday night destroyed a grocery and damaged three adjoining dwellings. Cause of the blaze has not been determined. Neighbors reported sighting a "suspicious character."

Scene of the blaze, which did $10,000 damage to the store of Roy Kwong, was on the site of the proposed new Vancouver Post Office at Hamilton and Georgia Streets.

Dolly Christensen and Monica Walsh, who occupied a suite above the grocery, were at home when the fire broke out.

Miss Walsh, trapped by the flames, jumped from a second-story window. Aying on the store front broke her fall and she was taken to hospital with bruises and shock.

Plane Crash Party Saved From Jungle

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Italian armored cars battled through thick, lion-infested jungles today and rescued six Americans whose plane crashed near the Somali border Sunday.

Radio advices received here said the Americans were taken to Belet Uen, about 35 miles from the scene of the crash. An Ethiopian Airlines plane was waiting there to fly them to Addis Ababa.

Earlier radio reports said all were alive, but gave no names. Capt. Donald C. Collins of Los Angeles, Ethiopian Airlines pilot, had dropped medicine and food at a spot where the plane's wreckage was believed sighted.

The plane was a single-engine Norseman type chartered by the Rogers-Ray Company, an American firm which transports supplies and personnel to the camp of the Sinclair Petroleum Company in distant Ogaden desert.

The plane left Mogadiscio, Somaliland, Sunday morning. Nothing was heard from it until faint radio messages were picked up by the camp, which relayed them to Addis Ababa.

The plane went down about 35 miles northwest of Belet Uen, a town near the border. Ethiopian Airlines immediately dispatched search planes. Every powered vehicle in the Sinclair camp was dispatched toward the spot.

Nine Killed In Crash Of B-25

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP)—The Olmsted Field Air Force base said today nine airmen were killed in the crash of a B-25 plane near Elkins, W.Va. All nine bodies were recovered. All aboard were military personnel.

Hot Days Continue And Patrols Prepare To Swing Into Action

MISSION (CP)—The rising Fraser River claimed a $17,000 bank protection project at Agassiz in the lower Fraser Valley today as the water edged past the 19-foot mark here and to within one foot of the danger point.

Continuing hot weather in the Fraser basin of the interior gave every indication that Friday may see the river pass the mark.

Dike patrols on Nicomen Island just up river worked through the night and were increased today on the west shore at known weak spots in dikes. Throughout the remainder of the valley like system, organizations prepared to swing into action at a moment's notice.

The overnight rise of the Fraser was slightly less than a foot.

Trucks worked pouring ballast at Agassiz, dumping rock on the bank threatened by the current that already has swirled away one protection layer.

MINISTER SPEAKS

British Grateful For Gift Apples From B.C.

LONDON (CP)—Patrick Gordon-Walker, Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations, said today he hopes nobody in Canada feels that Britain is "anything less than grateful" for gift apples from British Columbia.

"We are very grateful for this—and for many other—gifts from Canada," Gordon-Walker told Commonwealth correspondents at a press conference.

He said he didn't want to comment any further on the gift apples, the disposition of which Agriculture Minister Gardiner queried in the Canadian House of Commons Monday night.

Gordon-Walker added, however, that he felt the British government's trade relations with Canada were "very satisfactory."

Food Ministry officials earlier today had declined to comment on Gardiner's statements on Anglo-Canadian trade. But the Daily Express quoted a Food Ministry official as saying the Commonwealth gift centre had distributed as many of the apples to school children as it could handle.

The rest were sold to whole salers at normal prices so that we could recover freight charges from Vancouver," the official was quoted as saying.

Alexander Rouses Italians' Anger On Share In War

ROME (Reuters)—Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza today told the Italian cabinet Viscount Alexander's views on Italy's part in the war contradicted the recognition given in Italy's peace treaty with the Allies.

The views, published in the London Gazette, had belittled Italy's war effort, he said.

Now Governor-General of Canada, Lord Alexander was wartime commander-in-chief of the Allied armies in Italy. His dispatches said Italy came into the war only to be on the winning side.

EVACUATE 100 RESIDENTS OF SKEENA TOWN

Families at Usk on the Skeena River are being evacuated because of rising waters. Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney said here today.

Usk is about 16 miles east of Terrace, Mr. Kenney's home.

Water is over the highway at Mile 67, about 30 miles west of Terrace, but the road was reported to be passable still.

The flooding of the river already has forced ferries to discontinue operation, the minister said. The evacuation at Usk is nothing new to the approximately 100 residents. Flood waters have raged through the town before.

Two New Fires In N. Alberta Under Control

EDMONTON, Alta. (BUP)—Two additional fires were reported in Alberta's tinder-dry northern territory today as forest officials pleaded with residents to be particularly careful during the current heat wave.

While no marketable timber had yet been burned, authorities said the danger was growing rapidly.

Chief Timber Inspector J. L. Janssen said there were two fires burning out of control and 10 others still burning, but under control.

The newest outbreaks reported were already under control, he said, adding that fire fighters were waging a little better than a 50-50 battle against the flames.

The uncontrolled fires were in the remote Calling Lake area and south of Fort Smith in far northern Alberta. Commercial timber stands were in danger.

Janssen appealed to residents to be particularly careful in the tinder-dry northern region.

Wisner Satisfied On Police Change

Satisfactory progress is being made in negotiations for the change to R.C.M.P. in the policing of the province, it was reported today by Attorney General Gordon Wisner following a meeting with Commissioner S. T. Wood of the national law enforcement agency.

Mr. Wisner declined to give details of his talks with Commissioner Wood, who was leaving Victoria today for the mainland.

MOVE TO CLOSE GAPS IN OFFICIAL SECRETS ACT

OTTAWA (CP)—The government today gave notice the most spy-conscious session of Parliament in years is shortly going to be asked to study proposed changes in the country's espionage legislation.

Justice Minister Garson confirmed he will introduce at this session amendments to the Official Secrets Act, basis of the 1946 prosecutions in the Communist espionage probe. He placed a notice on the Commons order paper.

Hitherto the government has said the amendments might be held up until a later session.

They are not expected to work any sweeping changes in the act but rather to tighten up loopholes. One is expected to provide for prosecution of Canadians who violate the act outside Canada and later return home.

$1,000,000 DAMAGE IN ALBERTA MINE FIRE

Flames Raze Tipple, Briquette Plants, Bins; 450 Miners May Lose Employment As Result

NORDEGG, Alta. (BUP)—A coal mine fire at Nordegg, Alberta, caused a possible $1,000,000 damage early today and put 450 miners out of work.

The blaze swept through the Brazeau Collieries, destroying the tipples which bring the coal out, the dust storage bin, the briquette storage bin and four briquette plants.

The fire started in the drying system of the tipples, burning tar, grease and oil near a coal storage bin, made the fire-fighters' task almost hopeless.

Five hundred tons of coal in the bin were still burning at noon. Company officials said some of the miners would find employment rebuilding the burned-out structures.

Nordegg is 190 miles south-west of Edmonton.

Woman Held As Plane Murder Witness Heard

QUEBEC (CP)—Mrs. Arthur Pitre, 41-year-old sister of General Ruest who is facing a murder charge, was arrested today charged with intimidation of a witness.

The charge was laid during the preliminary hearing of Ruest growing out of the time-bomb airplane disaster last September when 23 persons were killed.

When told she was to be arrested, the sister of the 51-year-old crippled watchmaker resisted and a burly policeman took her away.

Earlier Marguerite Lachance, a young girl, testified at Ruest's preliminary hearing that Mrs. Pitre warned her "not to talk."

MEMORY FAILS

A young nephew of Ruest, Maurice Richard, 16, was taken to task by Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion because he could not remember whether his uncle at one time had used the word "watch" or "bomb."

The uncle's remarks came soon after J. Albert Guay, 32-year-old jeweler, was arrested on a murder charge. Guay was convicted of the murder of his wife who died with 22 others in the plane crash caused by a time bomb. He was sentenced to be hanged June 23 but the date was set back to Jan. 12 when Ruest was arrested on a similar murder charge.

Young Michaud said Ruest's remarks were made after the uncle had been informed police found paraffin in Ruest's home.

Michaud quoted Ruest as saying "I don't care; there was none of it in the watch or bomb, I don't remember which he said."

The French words "montre" (watch) and "bombe" (bomb) have a similarity in sound.

Mr. Dorion informed Michaud that when he was questioned by police he had declared Ruest said "bomb."

Michaud insisted he could not remember which word was used.

Decision Awaited As Policy Group Meeting

VANCOUVER (CP)—The union policy committee guiding 32,000 British Columbia coastal loggers met today to decide if union-shop principles are worth a $1,000,000-a-day strike. Attending the meeting is International I.W.A. president, James Fadling.

Earlier in Portland, Fadling had announced ratification by C.I.O. woodworkers of a contract with operators in the U.S. northwest. It featured a health and welfare program.

A strike is scheduled for the province's leading industry, worth $360,000,000 a year, at midnight tonight.

More than 160 coastal operators, represented by Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., Tuesday night made their "final offer." A union shop, paramount demand of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O., C.C.L.), was not included. A 17-cents-an-hour wage increase was another demand.

This means all woodworkers now members of the I.W.A. who become members after the signing of a new contract must maintain membership as a condition of employment. Conciliation board's unanimous decision recommended this provision.

The tip-off came from an F.B.I. agent in Washington last Friday. Bogus travelers' cheques totaling more than $100,000 which had been cashed in Seattle, Minneapolis, St. Louis and Portland.

The agent told city detectives 44 had been cashed in Seattle in one day. One of the individuals who cashed one of them noticed the number on the driver's license which the passer used as identification.

He checked with city police and said it might not be worth anything. However, detectives connected the bogus cheques with similar ones which had been passed in Edmonton.

While they were looking for the owner of the driver's license, other police brought in information which led to arrest of one Vancouver man.

Detectives followed the trail to the Kitsilano district, questioned neighbors of the man, and found a house which had marks on the floor showing that a large machine had been installed there and recently removed.

Detectives contacted a transfer firm and tracked the machinery to a house.

There they arrested the second man, who is now held for investigation.

Consider Red Offer

OTTAWA (CP)—A clamour for an early start on the St. Lawrence Seaway project welled up on all sides of the Commons today.

Rodney Adamson (P.C.-York Street) keynoted a general sense of urgency about the long-delayed power and navigation project as the House studied and approved a treaty with the United States involving another power development, one for the diversion of Niagara River waters.

Both Canada's industrial expansion and the military security of the entire North America continent are being placed in jeopardy, Mr. Adamson declared, by the ability of a small U.S. Senate majority to frustrate the "overwhelming pressure" for the St. Lawrence project.

Police State Counterfeiting Ring Broken

VANCOUVER (CP)—A large-scale counterfeiting ring which has been flooding United States cities with Bank of America travelers' cheques was broken today by city police after six days of investigation.

Two Vancouver men are being held by police. One is being held by Edmonton police and an escort is on the way here for him. No charges have been laid against the second as yet.

An 800-pound counterfeiting machine worth $5,000 and photographic equipment was seized by city detectives.

The tip-off came from an F.B.I. agent in Washington last Friday. Bogus travelers' cheques totaling more than $100,000 which had been cashed in Seattle, Minneapolis, St. Louis and Portland.

Bastion Square Landmark Goes

One of Victoria's old landmarks which was considered out of place in this modern age of cars was cut down by city workmen today. Old cedar tree stood on Bastion Square, on west side of courthouse, for more than 40 years. City plans to make square into parking area.

Players' Guild Adds To Fund

Mayor's fund for Manitoba flood relief was increased Tuesday when Alec McGown, left, president of Victoria Players' Guild, handed Mayor George $150. Centre is Miss Noel Cusack, vice-president of the Players' Guild, which raised the money with their comedy, "Fools Rush In," held recently at the Sirocco.

Cleric Says Red Dean 'Addlepat Idealist'

An attack on Communism was delivered in an address to the Victoria Electric Club, Tuesday, by Rev. William Hills.

Mr. Hills was particularly critical of the "Red Dean," Dr. Hewlett Johnson. He described Dr. Johnson as "a psychological phenomenon," a very minor official in the Church of England who happens to hold an illustrious title.

"In a less dangerous world he'd be a happy eccentric, a character out of Dickens. He is an addlepat idealist," Mr. Hill said.

Speaking on the Communist theory more generally, he described it not as a philosophy but as a conspiracy. He said all Communists were anarchists.

In the face of the Communist threat, the emotions and enthusiasms of the democratic peoples had to be aroused to a full realization of the two broad concepts on which democracy was built: freedom of liberty and responsibility, he said.

"What the Communists want is liberty without responsibility, which amounts to license," declared Mr. Hill.

Former Trail M.L.A. Dies In Victoria

Former member of the B.C. Legislature for Rossland-Trail, Richard R. Burns, 76, died in hospital here early today after a brief illness.

Mr. Burns suffered a stroke a few days ago. First elected to the Legislature in 1933, Mr. Burns represented the interior constituency until 1939.

Born in Rochester, Kent, England, he came to Canada in 1882. He was educated in Ontario and moved west to B.C. to settle in Kamloops, where he married Miss Harriet Moore in 1904. They had three children, Margaret Muirhead, Ronald M. and Robert Edward.

Mr. Burns was a director of Kootenay Drugs Ltd. at Trail until two years ago, when he retired and moved to Victoria. A veteran of the First World War, Mr. Burns was quartermaster of No. 5 Stationary Hospital, C.A.M.C., with the rank of captain.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

'Drama' Club Presents Hilarious 'Potlatch'

There is a drama and debating group in the city which few have heard about—or are likely to hear about—for their efforts are strictly for their own entertainment.

It is made up of a number of provincial civil servants who enjoy a few hours' relaxation after the rigors of a day's work.

The actors made their first appearance recently in a one-act play entitled "Potlatch," written and directed by Chuck Kinlock and Alf Jacklin. It was held in the Legion Hall on Superior Street.

The somewhat hilarious presentation was in honor of two new members of the group who will soon be married, Gordon Ritchie and Bob Lomas.

Drudgery For Winnipeg Housewife Returning To Flood-Ravaged Home

Mrs. Henry Heber of Winnipeg's Point Douglas district was one of 100,000 evacuees from the Red River flood zone. Her home was flooded. A week ago she brought her family back and started the clean-up job. Here she tells what housewives all through the Red River Valley face.

By ELLY HEBER

WINNIPEG (CP)—I'd never have believed so much could happen in one month.

There we were with the house beginning to look like something again—that awful smell was gone, thank goodness—and only a month ago we fled for our lives and figured we'd never get back.

We were asleep on Saturday, May 6, when someone banged on the door and said: "Get ready to move; the dikes have broken." Only a couple of blocks from the big Point Douglas dike, we'd been worried. Everything we have in the world is in this house. And Luther, the 11-year-old, has a bad heart and shouldn't be rushed around.

But we moved—and fast.

PACKED IN ATTIC

We'd already packed most of our small stuff up to the attic and propped the furniture up, so we bundled what we could into bags. I didn't know when we'd be able to get a meal again so I started frying some meat for sandwiches.

Henry went to the basement and saw how quickly the water was coming up. He made me get out. I had to climb along the fence to make it to the road.

Everyone looked ghostly in the light of the street lamps; the rain poured down.

We went to a hotel the first day, but it was so expensive there we moved to the Stella Mission. They were wonderful to us—scared and confused as we were.

Then, when people started coming in from all over the district, John Cloverluk, a friend, took us in to his place. Finally he drove me and the kids to Wappella. Henry stayed behind at his night watchman's job and helped at the dikes.

Before we left we visited the house in a boat. There was six feet of water in the streets and it looked as though it would never go away. I didn't think we'd ever be back.

PLANNED TO SELL

We had planned to sell the house this summer. Henry wanted to wait until the trees were in leaf and the street looked its best, but I couldn't shake the feeling that we should leave before something happened. Of course, I'd never dreamed of anything like this.

All the time the children and I were at Wappella I worried about the house. I still dream of it sometimes—all that ugly water washing through it, eating at the walls and the floor, ruining my stove and bed.

When we finally left to come back, I was scared of what I'd find.

But there we were after a few days of the kind of work I never want to do again, beginning to feel reasonably chipper about the future.

ALL SO WONDERFUL

Everyone has been so wonderful. The Red Cross, the United Church Mission (we're Lutherans ourselves), the people at the rehabilitation centre.

"I've been almost embarrassed to ask for anything, they're so anxious to help. We were pretty broke after the trip—although everyone helped us—and we got food and shelter and clothing for the asking.

We'd got most of the basic cleaning done. The walls looked

Huge Wash Follows Flood

Getting her once-flooded Winnipeg home in ship-shape after a week's drudgery, Mrs. Heber has lots of help with a large wash. pretty good, though the assessors said the water has soaked up for several feet in the boards and the studs. We just painted them last winter and I'm still not sure whether I'm glad we had the fresh paint to protect them or whether I'm irked at all that wasted effort. Every try painting the inside of a house with four kids running around?

The floors looked pretty good, but were twisting more and more as they dried out. My next-door neighbor has hardwood and she had to rip out all the top before she could move five 3 INCHES OF SLIME

The basement wasn't bad, but we still must shovel about three inches of slime out of it. That will be a backbreaker and I'm glad Henry has taken his holiday from the mill so I won't have to do it.

The furniture was still all piled in two rooms, and will be for a day or so. I guess we'll get by with the bare floor for a while.

And that back yard! It makes me shudder to think of it. Young Walter's been tugging away at bits of debris. But that's a job for a couple of good men and a truck. The water was above fences, and it all just floated in—from the river and the lumber yards.

GLADIOLUS SOCIETY

The Victoria Gladiolus Society will meet in the council chamber, City Hall, Thursday evening, at 8. R. McAree will demonstrate floral arrangements. J. Bosher, plant pathology laboratory, will speak on gladiolus diseases in the field.

Our ladder floated away, but we found someone else's had floated in.

The work doesn't sound so much, I guess, but it's more tiring than you can imagine. Something like trying to clean a wall in a nightmare, where you rub and rub and nothing comes off. After a while you get frantic, but there's no use hurrying. It just takes patience.

Injured Mechanic In Good Condition

Injured Monday evening when a loaded car hoist at the Douglas Street garage of Heaney's Motors, 20-year-old Frank Wille, 3474 Quadra Street, was reported to be in good condition by St. Joseph's Hospital attendants today.

The young mechanic was crushed to the floor when the props keeping the hoist up broke.

Accident Victim's Condition Fair

Condition of badly injured Mrs. Christina Love, 71, of 2531 Government Street, was reported as only fair today by Royal Jubilee Hospital officials. Mrs. Love was in collision with a car while crossing Douglas Street at Queens Monday evening and suffered severe head injuries and shock.

5 MORE CASES OF NEWCASTLE

Five more cases of Newcastle disease have been reported in Vancouver Island chicken farms.

Three are at Nanaimo, one at Port Alberni and another at Alberni.

Dr. F. W. Macdougall, government veterinarian, said the flocks will be destroyed.

City Quakers Send Clothing To Aid Europe

Eighteen large cartons of clothing, weighing approximately 100 pounds each, left Victoria for England recently and Quaker Headquarters in London, according to Mrs. I. M. Vallance, clerk, of the Society of Friends, Victoria Meeting, Tuesday.

Latest news from the service committee indicated continuing great need for relief supplies, she said, referring to incidence of tuberculosis among students in France and the plight of 12,000,000 refugees in Germany.

Powdered milk was recently shipped by the Quakers for French university students, who hold medical certificates showing their need.

Mrs. Vallance said contributions of clothing and footwear would be most welcome and donors are asked to leave parcels at the Friends' Meeting House, 1831 Fern Street, or place them in the box labeled "Quaker Relief" in the boys' department of the T. Eaton store.

Two Years For Entry Attempt

Carl C. Kibsgaard was sentenced by Judge H. H. Shandley in County Court Tuesday to two years in penitentiary after pleading guilty to a charge of attempting to break in and enter Kibsgaard was accused of attempting to enter the premises at 1424 Fort Street, owned by J. R. Watkis.

Dominion Pickets Quit As Injunction Upheld

Pickets were withdrawn from the Royal Dominion Dining Room and Restaurant on Yates Street Tuesday night following an Appeal Court judgment upholding an interim injunction of Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane.

The interim injunction granted by Mr. Justice Macfarlane and dissolved May 1 in Supreme Court by Mr. Justice H.

S. Wood, prohibited Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Union, Local 459, (A.F.L.-T.L.C.), from picketing the restaurant of Paul George Arsens.

The appeal court in Vancouver ruled that "picketing in pursuance of an illegal strike is illegal." Lloyd G. McKenzie was counsel for the restaurant.

Restaurant waitresses picketed the restaurant following a labor dispute with Mr. Arsens involving the alleged dismissal of certain employees.

George F. Gregory, counsel for the union, argued that if there had been an illegal strike, it ended when the waitresses offered to come back to work.

Ceylon Bakers Discuss Canadian Flour Quality

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuter)—Food Minister A. Ratnayake said today he proposed to call a conference of bakers to seek their advice about quality and grade before the Ceylon government made any more purchases of flour from Canada or elsewhere.

His action is the result of protests by Ceylonese bakers that Canadian flour imported by the government was of poor quality.

Ratnayake said today: "When we ordered flour from Australia, local bakers protested about the quality and requested me to import Canadian flour instead.

"They did not tell us anything about the quality required, and we ordered from Canada."

"Now this flour, too, has been condemned by the bakers."

Ratnayake said that though he hoped the bakers would tell him the quality of flour required, "we must be mindful of the price factor."

Tuesday Ceylon's Food Commissioner, K. Alvapillai, announced all purchases of Canadian flour had been stopped until Canadian suppliers could guarantee "good quality."

He said Ceylon had bought Canadian flour in the hope it would make Australia bring down her price. About 35,000 tons of Canadian flour had been bought from private dealers, but the bakers had protested it made "worse bread than ever before."

Britain Nears Easier Japan Peace Treaty

LONDON (AP)—Diplomatic officials say that only formal approval now stands in the way for a British Commonwealth "soft" peace policy for Japan.

The policy is intended to induce Japan not to enter any alliance with Russia and Red China, they say. It was agreed on in detail at a 17-day conference of Commonwealth governments here last month.

It reverses the harsh punishment Japan policy talked of two years ago at a conference in Australia.

The program favors a peace treaty that would deny Japan an army, a secret police force, or secret blood-bond societies, but it would allow Japanese police to be armed. Japan would be confined to her main four islands, giving up prewar overseas possessions.

Japan would have her sovereignty restored and would not have to pay reparations, under the Commonwealth plan.

$19,850,000,000 For Soviet Arms

Contrasts With $13,028,000,000 For U.S. Defence Plans This Year

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has set aside for defence this year the equivalent of $19,850,000,000—a figure based on the official value of the ruble.

Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev announced the sum—18.5 per cent of the 1950 budget—to the Supreme Soviet (parliament) at a joint meeting of its two houses Tuesday night. Prime Minister Stalin and many members of the foreign diplomatic corps were present.

Zverev said the Russian figure represents a decline in military expenditures from the prewar year of 1940.

REVENUES DROP

Zverev also disclosed a drop in expected total revenues, first since the war, which he ascribed to wide price reductions. He revealed that the Russian financial surplus will be sharply cut.

He charged Britain and the United States with aggression and said the United States is spending, directly and indirectly, $32,000,000,000 in the coming budget year for war. Zverev said the sum is more than 70 per cent of the total U.S. budget.

More than 2,000 delegates applauded Stalin, attired in uniform and looking as usual, when he took a seat in a back row on the dais, along with Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov and other Politburo members.

There was applause, too, when Zverev announced that the 18.5 per cent total for defence contrasted with more than 32.6 per cent in 1940 and 24 per cent in 1946.

PRICE CUTS

Because of wholesale and retail price reductions early this year, Zverev said total 1950 revenues will be 432,000,000,000 rubles, a drop of 5,000,000,000 rubles from last year.

He also said there will be a sharp increase in capital expenditures. This is regarded here as demonstrating Soviet determination to step up its economic program substantially.

Total expenditures of 427,900,000,000 rubles should leave a surplus of 4,100,000,000 rubles, as against a surplus last year of 24,700,000,000 rubles.

Zverev said last year that the defence budget estimate was 19 per cent of the total, but apparently he did not mention that Tuesday night.

Last year's Soviet budget called for an equivalent of $1,000,000,000 less than this year's defence total, however.

President Truman asked Congress for $13,028,000,000 for United States defence in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Digging In For Lengthy Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Early morning shifts of A.F.L. mechanical union members refused again today to cross C.I.O. picket lines at the New York World-Telegram and Sun. Both sides dug in for a long strike.

The American Newspaper Guild (C.I.O.) walked out Tuesday to enforce its contract demands for editorial and commercial workers.

"Even if the craft unions cross the picket lines we probably won't put out a paper today," said N. S. MacNeish, the newspaper's business manager.

1950 'Good Citizen'

Only Way To Win Now Is To Build Defences

Must Aid Europe, Hoffman Declares

WELLESLEY, Mass. (UP)—The only way to win "this present struggle with the Kremlin" is to rebuild western Europe's military and economic defences so no aggressor would dare attack, according to Economic Co-operation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman.

Speaking at Wellesley College's 75th anniversary celebration, Hoffman said the "cold war" drained the free world's resources, but it was the only alternative to surrender or appeasement to Soviet tyranny.

"I have small patience with those who think it should be a shooting war, the 'let's-drop-a-bomb-on-Moscow-and-get-it-over-with-school' of thought," he said. "That suggestion is fired at me on occasion and my answer is always that I have no heart for world war III."

The goal of the free world's cold war with Russia, he said, was to "help other people remain free and gain in strength." He said the west's cold war was one of rebuilding rather than destroying.

U.S. Industrial Production Zooms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Industrial production in the United States in May climbed within 1 per cent of the peacetime record set at the height of the 1948 boom, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

It figured June output should go even higher, if present trends are continued, probably equalling the postwar peak of October and November, 1948.

A preliminary estimate by the board showed May production 93 per cent above the 1935-39 monthly average.

U.S. Zone Of Germany Combed For G.I. Bad Man

MUNICH, Germany (UP)—Hundreds of heavily-armed police with orders to shoot on sight searched through Munich and the Bavarian countryside today for Germany's public enemy No. 1, Oklahoma badman Homer Cook, who broke out of jail for the third time in two months.

U.S. military police were ordered: "Don't ask any questions. Fill him full of lead."

The 27-year-old Cook, a 200-pound, six-foot-one former boxer, ripped a bar from a window of the Dachau prison library, leaped outside and dashed across a field into the Bavarian woods just after dusk Tuesday night.

He scaled three walls, one 12 feet high and topped with barbed wire. A prison guard said he took aim at Cook but that his rifle jammed.

A cold rain fell throughout the night. Cook, with no money and clad only in cotton trousers and an undershirt, was expected soon to make some break for food and clothing.

U.S. and German military police, led by bloodhounds, hunted him throughout the night.

Their chase took them to a displaced persons camp near Dachau shortly after midnight. Terrified residents of the camp were awakened by 50 soldiers and policemen armed with carbines and pistols. No resident admitted seeing Cook, however, and a thorough search failed to show a trace of him.

ACCORDING TO AN ASSOCIATED Press despatch from Washington, United States military planners are of the opinion that the Western democracies may avoid "blood and tears" if they devote the right amount of "toll and sweat" to the production of revolutionary weapons developed during the recent war and since. In support of their argument they contend that the achievements of science make it possible to buy relative security without spending to the point of bankruptcy. On the other hand, however, they point out that this less costly way of matching Russia's military strength will be neither cheap nor easy.

It is no secret, of course, that a very large slice of the Soviet Union's annual budget for the last three years has been allocated to the production of the implements of war and in the development and expansion of those industries essential to a wartime economy. And the Washington despatch to which we have alluded repeated some of the statistics reproduced in these columns two weeks ago. These included official United States estimates of Russian strength in the following particulars: An army of 175 divisions ready for combat, plus the ability to increase this to 300 divisions in 60 days, and to 500 in a matter of months. Together with her satellites some 40,000 tanks could be mustered under the hammer and sickle at once, an air force "whose strength in all categories is now the largest in the world"—including long-range bombers—and the world's largest submarine fleet. How many atom bombs Moscow has in storage is the Kremlin's closely-guarded secret. The Peace Council fraternity, the followers of the "Red Dean" and the Endicotts, will pooh-pooh any reference to such Soviet war preparation. The former Canadian

United Church missionary told a Victoria audience recently that Stalin "is building for peace." To which all save the credulous will reply "my hat!"

Since the United States military planners have mentioned the cost involved in avoiding "blood and tears" by the application of the right amount of "toll and sweat" against possible or probable events, it may be interesting to consider what it costs Canada to go defence shopping. Here are a few items listed by Defence Minister Claxton a few weeks ago: One Patton tank $300,000; one AA gun, installed, $600,000; one Mark VI fire control radar set $100,000; one No. 10 predictor $50,000; one early warning radar station $2½ million to $3 million; one new-type anti-submarine vessel $8 million; one four-engine long range bomber (when purchased in quantity) $3 million; one airfield for jets, ready for operation, $15 to $20 million; one more man added to strength costs $2,600 a year, increasing in each year of service; and there are 117,000 Canadians engaged in full-time or part-time defence duties at the present time.

How far Canada can go "without spending to the point of bankruptcy" on her defence program is a question which the average taxpayer would find it difficult to answer. What he does realize, and insists upon, is that this country as a signatory to the North Atlantic Alliance must pull its full weight on a basis comparable to that of its fellow members. If there is one aspect in respect of such expenditures with which he will become impatient, however, it is political manoeuvre—typical of some of the more capricious government critics—which attempts to show that the nation's "relative security" can be purchased and taxation reduced at one and the same time.

Nobody Is Asleep

OFFICIAL OPPOSITION MEMBERS of the House of Commons seem to be a little worried because Defence Minister Claxton is not ready to tell them in precise language what is embodied in the principle of "balanced defence forces"—as applied to Canada's share in implementing the Atlantic Pact—and just how prepared the Dominion is for her own defence in collaboration with United States fighting personnel.

Progressive Conservative leader Drew need not apologize for his anxiety at this stage of world tension. It is quite likely he still remembers how the three fighting services were seriously curtailed during the Bennett regime. But the merit of his fears and the manner in which he expresses them will be measured by their political flavor. Surely he would be the last to demand information for public inspection "which, as Mr. Claxton, for instance, pointed out, will be incomplete until further negotiations between the Pact members have taken place. Said the Minister: "I must say that I am astonished at being accused steadily throughout the last few days of not disclosing something that has not been revealed or disclosed to me or to anyone else in the world yet." In other words, the question of what balanced forces mean in terms of equipment and personnel has not yet come before the Council's deputies and other agencies of the Alliance, although Mr. Claxton hinted at the possibility of a reorganization of the Canadian forces. It is apparently this latter with which Mr. Drew is mainly concerned for the time being.

Everybody will agree with Mr. Drew's desire to have "a hitting force that can be put in the field the moment the demand comes." But is not this the principal objective of the partners in the Atlantic Pact? It is what the layman understands from the information which emerged from the recent deliberations in London of the North Atlantic Council. And the only potential enemy of the free world would give a good deal to know precisely what the members of the democratic Alliance propose to do in detail in their own defence—or to check any aggressive move before it gains impetus.

Closing Out A Chapter

THE ANNOUNCEMENT BY JUSTICE Minister Stuart S. Carson that the federal government will pay $1,222,829 to approximately 1,300 Canadians of Japanese origin in additional settlement of their claims for properties seized and sold during the war should end a problem that has long troubled the conscience of a good many citizens. It was natural enough in the heat of the conflict, with Japanese aggression of our shores a distinct possibility, and a large population of Japanese origin, whose sympathies were not entirely understood, close to the seaboard, that public sentiment should have demanded a quick elimination of any threat to our security. In the stress of the moment it was almost inevitable that injustices might be done to residents who were forced to dispose of their property and move out of the coastal area on short notice. In suffering thus they were victims of a global war which they had not themselves provoked but of which they, like hundreds of thousands of others, were made to carry the burden. Now the losses which they sustained through the forced sales have been largely repaid. They may write "finished" to that unhappy chapter, and reflect that they were spared the total loss—of life, health or property—that was the fate of so many in all lands as a result of the conflict.

If all the flying saucer stories were placed end to end, they would then be well grounded.

Gambling Probe

By NORA BELOFF From Washington
THE inner contradiction between the prevailing belief that gambling is wicked and the human frailty that finds it irresistible is the modern American gangster's delight.

Investigation into their multi-billion dollar business—reputedly getting bigger and bigger—and the stranglehold they exercise over politicians, legislators, policemen, municipal judges and state prosecutors, is now being simultaneously examined by a grand jury in New York and a Senate investigation committee in Washington.

ALREADY enough information is available on their profits and power to stun law-abiding citizens. Nevertheless, informed opinion in both cities predicts that although the stories which emerge will make front-page news, big black headlines and wonderful themes for sermons and scenarios, the chances of effective action are still remote.

Current investigations began when the police discovered the bloodstained corpses of two citizens of Kansas City, whose names had been publicly associated with both the gambling underworld and the local political machine. Charles Banagio and Charles Gargotta were national celebrities and people who had been worrying for some time about the extended profits of big-time gamblers and their contribution to political campaign funds, decided the time had come for an official sniff.

AMONG the leaders of those who feel that the old-fashioned grip of gangsters on politicians is a disgrace to American democracy is one of the youngest and ablest members of the American Senate: Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. Kefauver is known internationally as an ardent advocate of Atlantic union. But he first rose to fame two years ago when he won his election to the Senate by smashing the well-entrenched political "machine" of Edward Crump.

Now Kefauver has been appointed chairman of the special committee set up by the Senate to examine the link between "organized crime" and politics.

BUT the gangsters are still apparently confident of their own invincibility. For one thing, the legality of gambling is a matter for each state to determine; however strong the reformist element in Washington, it is constitutionally impossible to impose Washington decisions except with local backing. Locally, however, as a police chief from Ohio reported to Congress recently, "Politicians need money, racketeers need immunity. It is a marriage of convenience, and where a divorce would be excessively inconvenient to both parties."

Two powers back severe anti-gambling laws now prevalent just as once upon a time they backed prohibition; the moralists and the gangsters. The moralists want to protect the public against self-indulgence. The gangsters who made millions by trading liquors in the prohibitionist twenties, now find illegal gambling a quick and safe way to riches.

A SHARE of their profits, as crime investigation committees during the last few years have already revealed in Detroit, Chicago and elsewhere, is laid aside to buy local politicians who have the power to select police, prosecutors, judges and legislators. Anybody who tries to break into the gangs' monopolies is open to legal prosecution. The syndicates buy themselves not only immunity, but also monopoly against outside competition. For different reasons (the moralist through social, church and women's clubs and the gangster through money), the two sides between them control immense voting powers. Laws that interest both of them, even if they are excessively hard to enforce are also excessively hard to revise or modify. In the vast majority of American states betting on horse racing or dog racing is forbidden; but in the view of the well-known American observer John Gunther, legislation for the abolition of the gambling instinct of the Americans "is like mopping up the Mississippi with a dishrag."

DOG KEEPER

I am writing to thank you most kindly, and the reporter and photographer of the Times, for the able manner they came forward and helped me to sell my dogs. I can hardly believe in a British country it was possible to force a war veteran to sell his dogs or practically give them away to satisfy the whims of neighbors.

I had most of them for five years without complaint. And now I think Saanich is going to try to make me pay a fine. I have already paid over $150 last year. Not one cent more. I will follow gallant Judith Stoddart's tactics, and go to jail. I will not stand this cruel persecution any longer. In the words of Adam Smith:

For they are slaves who fear to speak
For the fallen and the weak.
They are slaves who dare not choose
Betwixt this and this devilish abuse.

WOODWORKERS' SIDE

In answer to Mr. D. S. Ashdown's letter in June 10 Daily Times criticizing the stand of the I.W.A. in the present negotiation with B.C. lumber operators, the following pertinent facts may well be remembered by both the general public and the union membership.

Living costs have risen greatly in the past two years, but the woodworkers have received no increase in wages during that period. Furthermore, living costs are no respecters of persons and all classes of employees, skilled or unskilled, are faced with the same increase. Thus there seems no basis for any discriminatory wage award. The only purpose of such an award is to drive a wedge of dissension between various groups encompassed by the union.

As regards the employer's ability to pay the increase in wages asked by the Union, without any increase in the price of lumber, it would be well to note that the majority of logs and lumber produced in British Columbia is sold in the United States market, where competing U.S. timber producers manage to stay in business and make a good profit while paying a wage scale which averages 45 cents an hour higher than that paid at present in B.C. Add to this the fact that B.C. producers also benefit from the 10% devaluation of the Canadian dollar, when selling on the U.S. market, and the I.W.A. proposal for wage increases does not seem unduly drastic.

Before discussing the question of Union shop versus Maintenance of Membership, it should be clearly understood that the I.W.A. is asking for a Union Shop, and not a Closed Shop. The union does not want to supervise the hiring of employees by any company, but only asks that any employee hired by a company, after a thirty-day probationary period, become a member of the Union, as a condition of further employment.

Any citizen coming under the jurisdiction of a municipal, provincial or federal government, expects to be taxed, either directly or indirectly, to pay for the services rendered him by the government. This is not assailed as undemocratic but is accepted as a necessary procedure. The sole purpose of the Union is to better the working conditions and wages of those men coming under its contracts. Why, then, should it be considered undemocratic for all those benefitting by the jurisdiction of the Union to be forced to contribute to its operation?

Much is made by the operators of the fact that the proposed 48 hour week in the logging camps is subject to agreement by the Union. In reality, this clause in the Conciliation Board award reads that agreement must be reached between the employer and the representation of the Union on the job. This will mean invariably the shop steward, who is an employee of the company, and, as such, subject to pressure from the employer.

PEACE CAMPAIGN UNMASKED

In answer to the president of the Victoria Peace Council's letter attacking you for showing up the hollowness of the World Peace Council's current campaign, on the contrary I know that you are being a true worker for peace in doing this.

Some may not know that recently the Kremlin ordered all its stooges to carry out a peace campaign; and especially to persuade the ignorant that Russia wants peace and that the U.S.A. wants war. It is doing this because it was at least two more years to perfect its plans for world conquest. The purpose of the peace campaign is to raise up enough public opinion against rearmament to force the Atlantic Pact Governments to go slow and especially to make them stop atomic bomb stock-piling and working on the H-bomb. Meanwhile Russia, behind her iron curtain, is straining every nerve to increase her armaments; especially atom bombs and submarines.

Here is just one fact to show the absurdity of the propaganda that Russia is peaceful and the U.S.A. warlike. Russia now has a standing army of at least 150 divisions, the Atlantic Pact combine at most 35. Also Russia has at least 250 latest-type submarines and is working feverishly, with conscripted German engineers to build more.

In considering this peace campaign we must remember that Lenin laid down that propaganda is cheaper than bayonets.

Those who spread this absurd propaganda, whether they realize it or not, are working for war. For anyone who has studied the history of Russia knows that so soon as she feels that her armaments are superior to those of the Democracies, she will strike. Only, humanly speaking, by keeping ourselves strong and especially ahead with the atom bomb, can we keep ourselves from being enslaved by Russia, as eastern Europe has been enslaved.

Anyone who thinks that the U.S.A. is aggressive should read "Speaking Frankly" by J. Byrnes, U.S. Secretary of State, 1945-6. This shows clearly that, first President Roosevelt, and then Mr. Byrnes went to the extreme of appeasement in an attempt to keep friendly with the Kremlin.

SURPRISE and shocked concern, to put it mildly, have been caused in western capitals by the action of Britain's Labor Party in calling for that country to eschew further plans for "European" political and economic union until continental countries have adopted socialism.

This would, of course, put an ideological damper on concerted rehabilitation projects like the sensational French Schuman plan for the pooling of western Europe's coal and steel. Indeed, this sweeping proposal for unprecedented co-operation, which has aroused so much hope and optimism among the western powers, seems to be the immediate objective of the Socialist declaration.

The Labor Party doesn't speak officially for the Attlee government. But that's a hair-splitting distinction, because the party is master of the government which it creates.

However, Prime Minister Attlee took cognizance of the consternation caused by his party's edict and hastened to give an explanation in the House of Commons. He declared that his government wanted "to help and not to hinder" the Schuman plan. The Prime Minister held out hope that "the practical working out of the scheme will show ways by which the United Kingdom may be able to associate itself with this valuable piece of co-operation."

The point is that Britain has refused to commit herself in advance of hearing exactly what the continental countries propose in connection with the Schuman plan. The reason for this may be explained in the Labor Party statement regarding further programs for European political or economic union. This emphasized that European unity is not an "overriding end in itself" and that national sovereignty and Britain's obligations to her Commonwealth must come first.

The story as unfolded thus far leaves one with the feeling that there is much left unsaid. Britain is an active member of other co-operative organizations formed in western Europe since the war.

Why then should she suddenly shy away from the steel-and-coal project which has held out so much promise for the strengthening of western Europe?

It's a fair guess that John Bull is fearful on two scores: His steel and coal industries are among his greatest assets and the Schuman plan might hit him hard on the pocketbook. Further, the dollar-supplying dominions have a decided interest in the extent of Britain's surrender of sovereignty in any such co-operative project, and they may have shown uneasiness.

Ups And Downs

YOU KNOW," said the Elevator Man, "how one little rock slipping can cause a landslide. A slip of the tongue acts something the same way. Those moments when you want the floor to open and swallow you can result from a single word or letter out of place. One of the commonest cases is when you accidentally garble words so as to give a different meaning. An Oxford man named William Spooner did it so much that they started calling them spoonerisms and the name stuck. But the people who were victims of the habit got stuck worse. Main floor!"

"Well," said the Elevator Man, "a fellow in Vancouver has hit the jackpot. He introduced Hon. Paul Martin as minister of wealth and helifire. That's even worse than the man who knocked at the deanery door and asked 'Is the old bean dizzy?' There are more harmless cases, of course—the fellow who came in on a stormy night and announced it was raining with pain, the man with weak eyes who ordered sporn himmed reticulas, and the other fellow who admitted his mind was filled with a half-warmed fish. Mower lane!"

"Everybody," said the Elevator Man, "gets tripped up like that now and then. We can only be thankful we're not in a spot like radio announcers or public speakers where a slip can murder us. Incidentally, some of the diplomatic language these days makes you think old Spooner is at it again. The words say one thing but the intention is something quite different. Phrases about war and peace and freedom take on a new twist and begin to mean the opposite to what they used to. Maybe it's just being translated from Russian that makes them sound so phony."

Soviet Russia Speeds Up Training Plan Tying Satellite Leaders To The Kremlin

By JOHN MILES From London

FOR the first time since the Bolshevik revolution, large numbers of foreign visitors are going to the Soviet Union. These are selected groups of trade unionists, peasants, engineers, students, officers and Community Party probationers from Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and other satellite countries.

They are being admitted in their thousands for the sole purpose of studying Soviet methods and techniques and undergoing Bolshevik indoctrination from the fountain-head.

TRAINING GROUPS

Following the recent visit of a large delegation of Polish trade unionists to the U.S.S.R., a group of 250 Polish peasants left Warsaw last week to be trained on the collective farms in the Ukraine. Other groups are being organized and will follow them during the year.

Communist-Party selection officers have been for some time past combing the Polish technical schools and engineering plants for candidates suitable to be trained in Russia, technically and also politically. As a result, the first groups of engineers numbering several hundreds are leaving for Moscow to be rerouted through the Soviet training centres.

In a recent speech in Warsaw to party leaders, the leading Politburo member, Jacob Berman, complained that although engineers form the most vital element for the industrialization and socialization of Polish industry—particularly for the success of the Six Year Plan—only 25 per cent of them are members of the Polish Communist Party.

Soviet military school have for some time been open to specially selected officers from Poland and other satellite countries. Following a visit to Moscow of M. Stanislaw Skrzyszewski, Polish minister of education, arrangements have been made by which Polish students are to be admitted to the universities of Odessa and Kiev and several groups have already gone. Previously only Moscow university had been open to foreign students.

A far greater number of party "activists" from the satellite countries are being directed to the Soviet Union for training and the term "Moscow-trained" will in future be much more common. So far it has applied only to top-ranking and Politburo figures but Kremlin policy now appears to demand that even second and third rank party officials in Communist-controlled countries shall receive finishing courses in Leninist-Stalinist ideology and especially in Soviet political methods in the U.S.S.R. itself.

While this opening up of Russia to the foreign student and visitor—of a special type—marks a radical reversal of Russia's centuries old "closed door" policy, Russians themselves in much larger numbers are crossing the frontiers into Poland, Romania, Czechoslovakia and so on. For the first time a Russian trade union delegation is taking part in plenary session of the Polish Trade Union Council in Warsaw.

The number of Soviet citizens travelling, however, is small compared with the number of satellite pilgrims to the Soviet Union and they are of a different rank. They go abroad as advisers, organizers and supervisors. Doors open for them automatically. All the "planners in chief" and heads of departments of the huge plant of the new "Steel City" outside Cracow, Southern Poland, with its 100,000 workers, are Russians.

NARROW CONFINES

To this extent traditional Russian isolation is at an end. But the traffic is only within the narrow confines of communism in order that the satellite countries may be more closely integrated within the Soviet orbit. The process of dependence and Sovietization is to be political, geographical and now personal. The future satellite men and women are all to be Soviet-trained, whether they sit in the Politburo, head a village collective or drive a train. In effect, these countries are rapidly becoming an extension of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, whether physical incorporation takes place or not. (O.F.N.S. copyright.)

REPORT FROM VETERANS' HOSPITAL

Can't Explain Great Operations But Merriman Understands Food

By TOM MERRIMAN

Tom Merriman, city editor of the Times, is in the Veterans' Hospital undergoing treatment for a wound he suffered during World War I at Vimy.

Ward B, Veterans' Hospital—If there isn't something complimentary in type soon about the staff of this hospital, I am going to be in the doghouse as far as the patients are concerned. "Why don't you write something about the wonderful treatment we get?"

"Why don't you write about something of the remarkable operations performed here?"

There are a number of men here who some years ago would have been given up as hopeless. They talk for hours about remarkable operations which will restore them to a normal, useful working life.

No doubt they will be written up in medical journals but it is far too deep a task for a layman taking a rest cure.

MANY TO THANK
Many of the patients suggest a story about the nurses, the orderlies, the staff in charge of physiotherapy, occupational therapy, the courtesy of the staff whose hands you pass through as you are admitted, the radio technicians and so on.

There is really no need to particularize the fact that so many patients want to express appreciation of the treatment they are getting is sufficient in itself.

Most frequent suggestion is: "Why don't you give a boost for the dining-room, the cooks and the staff?"

And no wonder. It is always a good idea to toss a bouquet in type to cooks. Last time I did it was at the Veterans' Guard Reserve Camp at Hecla during World War II. It was something about wounded veterans of Dieppe still courageously carrying on, cooking for reserves during their convalescence and hoping to get fit to return to action.

One of the cooks clipped it to send to his family.

BREAKFAST IN BED

After that I got breakfast in bed at 5.30 every morning, ham and eggs, porridge, toast and coffee... the only "Private Acting Orderly Room Corporal Without Pay" ever to enjoy such a set-up, I'll bet.

But no such ulterior motive is necessary in paying a compliment to the cooks here.

It is high class cafeteria service. Nothing seems too much trouble for the friendly staff. They are as anxious to please as if all the patients were paying customers whom they wanted to keep for the good of the business.

WHAT FOOD!

And the food! Ham, eggs, porridge, toast, cereal, honey, jam, baked ham, chicken, pork chops, roast lamb, mint sauce, roast beef, (not overlooking the mustard), soup, creamed salmon, sole, tomato juice, fruit juice, salads, oranges, apples, bananas, jellies, and pastry like that of the finest French chef.

However eating high-class cafeteria meals here regardless of cost may lead to complications when you leave.

This habit of walking out, leaving no tip for a waitress and not paying a cashier, if it lingers with you when you get back to civilian life may cause a lot of embarrassment.

"Civilian life" is not quite the correct term.

One of the features stressed about the D.V.A. hospital is, it is not an army service hospital. There is not the slightest hangover from army life, no sergeants, corporals, captains or colonels, no bugles, no parades, no formal inspections, no "stand-by-your-bed."

And the results are proof of how unnecessary were those annoying restrictions which pandered to big brass vanity and irritated thousands of patients.

Naturally there is recognized authority, efficient considerate authority, but administered so it stirs admiration instead of resentment.

NOT "OTHER RANKS"

There no play on rank. Men are all patients — not "other ranks."

To the admiring staff every man is "Mister" which is a bit of a shock when an ex-private comes in temporary contact with what he at first thought was to be a spell of army life again.

Of course the "Mister" soon goes out the window when 25 or 30 ex-servicemen are grouped into one ward.

For instance Cap Robinson and Bill Jenkinson sleep in the same cubicle. I have heard them address one and other scores of times and use many forms of address but never "Mister."

Some of the terms they used I hadn't heard since leaving the army but they all come back to me now.

LIFE OF THE PARTY

I had thought of writing a piece on these untiring orderlies who after a day or two become personal pals. They should get paid as entertainers as well as for other duties. A lot of the time they are the life of the party.

However I'm sored a little on one whose free and easy line of comedy I used to look forward to for an hour every day. He passed this morning as the 20 or 30 of us were going into breakfast.

"Well, and how are you?" he asked in a booming voice which drew everybody's attention.

"I saw your article in the Times yesterday. It was all right but it didn't say nothing."

NO COMPLAINTS

Guy Benning who has been chairman of the Pro Pats, Canadian Legion sick and pensions committee for 10 years, says since the hospital was opened there have never been less than 23 members of his branch in at one time. The number has reached as high as 57. At the present time there are 34.

"I have never yet had one complaint about the hospital or treatment received," he said.

Mao Talks Of Demobilizing

TOKYO (AP)—Radio Peiping Tuesday quoted Mao Tse-tung, China's No. 1 Communist, as outlining a broad plan calling for demobilization of his armed might, land reforms and temporary retention of what is left of the capitalist system in China.

Mao was quoted as saying some of the millions of Chinese soldiers under arms would be demobilized this year. Enough will be retained, he said, to liberate Formosa from Nationalist Chinese, Tibet from the monks who rule that mountainous, Asian land, and to control "anti-revolutionaries" in China.

He listed three objectives as land reform, nationalization of commerce and industry and reduction of state expenditures.

THE HOME GARDEN

Transplant Lupins In Spite Of Old Beliefs

By JACK G. BEASTALL

So many visitors have admired our planting of lupins the last two seasons, that a few cultural notes should be of interest. The common name, lupin, is from the Latin "lupus," a wolf or destroyer, some species devastating the land by their abundance. The hardy perennial of the home garden is lupinus polyphyllus, pronounced pol-i-fil-lus and meaning many-leaved.

The plants we have are the popular Russell hybrids developed by the famous English specialist. The closely set spikes of quite large florets include self colors and some very unusual bi-colors, and stand three to four feet high.

OLD BELIEFS WRONG

Many of the old cultural instructions are being contradicted today. A possible reason why we do not see more of these beautiful flowers is that these past beliefs were discouraging.

For many years the gardener was warned that lupins were lime-haters and would only grow in acid soil. Today, commercial practice in England is to apply lime at the rate of one ton to the acre before sowing.

Another fallacy is that the seed must be sown where the plants are to flower because the tap-root prevents moving. In the small plant stage we transplant from seed-flat to nursery row and from there to permanent position in the fall.

Lupins prefer a well-drained location, and superphosphate and sulphate of potash in the proportion of two to one prior to setting out.

CAN STILL SOW

While we sow seed in early May, it is not too late to make a sowing at once. Sow thinly and prick-out the seedlings as soon as they can be handled. In August, carefully lift the plants and set them in the flowering location.

As soon as the lower flowers form seed pods, remove the entire flower spike, even if the top florets are not open. This gives you stronger plants and assures a good display the following year.

U.S. Shippers Dodge Tax On Freight In Canada

WASHINGTON (AP)—Internal revenue bureau officials said today that under the law there is nothing they can do about a new tax dodge based on payment of U.S. freight bills in Canada.

The crux of the issue is the phrasing of the tax act, applying the 3 per cent levy on transportation of goods only to the "amount paid within the United States."

The operation of the tax avoidance plan was reported Tuesday from Seattle, where railway officials said it already is in operation.

Seattle estimates said it might run into savings of millions of dollars by U.S. shippers, but the Internal Revenue Bureau implied some doubt as to the volume.

The catch, officials said, is that such transactions go tax free only if the payment is made personally in Canada by a regular representative of the shipper to a regular representative of the carrier. Payments through banks, mail or telegraph money order is not accepted.

With agreement from officials of the Association of American Railroads, tax authorities suggested that would limit the operation to very big shippers, and those very near the Canadian border. It would take quite a freight bill for the 3 per cent saving to show a profit if the payer had to stay in Canada or travel far.

What Congress will do about the new tax dodge is uncertain. There is even some doubt that it has power to close the loophole. Some lawyers say there is a real question whether the United States would have the right to tax a transaction carried out on foreign soil.

OAKLAND, Md. (AP)—Three children—the oldest 12 years of age—were burned to death today in a fire which swept a two-story frame house after a gasoline-powered washing machine had blown up.

Canada Wants U.N. To Decide World Atomic Control System

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson disclosed today that Canada is pressing the western powers to find some way to get the subject of international atomic controls back before the five-power United Nations commission, whose deliberations have been halted by another Russian walkout.

In a statement to the Commons external affairs committee Tuesday he outlined Canada's reaction to Trygve Lie's now-celebrated 10-point memorandum for finding peace through U.N.

The minister said he didn't quarrel with the principle of Mr. Lie's 10 points and didn't discuss the argument that regional arrangements—such as the Atlantic Pact—can't in themselves ensure peace. But his answers multiplied into a resume of the frustrations the U.N. has faced in seeking to drive in the direction Mr. Lie is again advocating.

In only one case, the provision of technical aid to underdeveloped areas, could he report that steps are being implemented. He said the specialized agencies were working, but in the face of Russian boycott.

Mr. Pearson called the memo an important one and said "our department is giving it very careful consideration" in anticipation that it will be discussed in U.N. With Mr. Lie's step in carrying the plan to Moscow as well as to three western capitals he could not quarrel and could not share the view that it was "a mission of appeasement."

He agreed with Gordon Graydon (P.C.-Peel) that some quarters in Washington appeared unimpressed with the Moscow trip and felt it might do more harm than good. He personally did not share those apprehensions, provided the emissary was prudent and his mission was made in such a way that propaganda by "ill-disposed" nations did not flow from it.

Mr. Pearson told Mr. Graydon there is no reason to believe Russia would rejoin the negotiations unless Red China replaces Nationalist China in the U.N.

Carnival operators at a young age are Brian Mee, right, and Roy Byfield, whose first business enterprise added $25 to the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund.

Esquimalt Boys' Carnival Nets $25 For Flood Fund

By WILLIAM BROADLEY

Does your son ever come up with some slightly fantastic ideas? In Esquimalt there is just such a boy, whose latest plan earned $25 for the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund. The boy, 14-year-old Brian Mee, engaged the assistance of his pal, Roy Byfield, to promote a carnival in the Mee family's back yard, 100 Fernline Road.

It took a week of hard work by both boys to have everything ready for the crowd of about a 100, aged from two to 80, who attended.

The sideshow, admission three cents, featured a song and dance by Glenys Mee; Roy, who played the clarinet, and Brian himself who played the organ and piano.

Boy With Father Till Mother's Case Decided

OTTAWA (CP)—A 10-year-old boy will remain with his father for an indefinite period, despite a Supreme Court of Canada ruling that he be placed in the care of his mother.

Just two days before Mrs. Evelyn McKee of Kitchener, Ont., was to have regained custody of her son, Terry, Mr. Justice J. C. Rand "froze" implementation of a June 6 judgment until the case could be heard before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

Until then, Terry will remain with his father, Mark T. McKee.

The June 6 judgment reversed a decision of the Supreme Court of Ontario and upheld an order issued by the Superior Court of California in 1945. It awarded Mrs. McKee custody of her son. The couple married in Vermont in 1933 and moved to California where Terry was born in 1940. In December, 1940, Mr. and Mrs. McKee separated and the following year Mrs. McKee began divorce proceedings. Mr. McKee entered a cross-complaint.

Mr. McKee was granted custody of the boy, but the Superior Court of California decided that custody of Terry should be awarded to his mother. Evidence further showed that Mr. McKee took his son to Kitchener and Mrs. McKee followed. The Supreme Court of Ontario found custody should be awarded to the father and this decision was upheld by the Court of Appeal for Ontario.

Mrs. McKee then brought the matter before the Supreme Court of Canada. The final decision will rest with the Privy Council.

Supreme Court To Give Judgment On 'Witnesses'

After Three Years Arguments Concluded On Jehovah's Group In Quebec Province

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada reserved judgment Tuesday on a three-year argument between the Jehovah's Witnesses and the Attorney-General of Quebec involving Aime Boucher on a charge of seditious libel.

Nine judges of the court now will deliberate their decision, not expected until September.

The result will climax a test case which opened in 1947 when Boucher was sentenced to one month's imprisonment at St. Joseph de Beauce for distributing a pamphlet entitled "Quebec's burning hate for God and Christ and Freedom is the Shame of all Canada."

The pamphlet alleged acts of violence against Jehovah's Witnesses and said the police of St. Joseph de Beauce had not attempted to stop them.

Last December the Supreme Court ordered a retrial, but this did not satisfy the Witnesses. They appealed on the ground that Boucher should have been granted acquittal. A rehearing was granted.

Throughout the three days of hearing, Glen How, 27-year-old Toronto lawyer who has defended Boucher since he was first arrested, insisted the pamphlet distributed by Boucher did not constitute seditious libel and was not intended to create "public disorder."

He was opposed by Lucien H. Gendron, Montreal lawyer, representing the Attorney-General of Quebec, who said there should be a new trial.

Mr. Gendron declared Boucher's pamphlet "goes farther than contempt of court. It is an attempt at raising hostility all over Canada against the administration of justice in Quebec."

He quoted from the pamphlet a passage saying: "Quebec, Jehovah's Witnesses are telling all Canada of the shame you have brought on the nation by your evil deeds. In the English, French and Ukrainian languages this leaflet is broadcasting your delinquency to the nation."

Mr. Gendron contended that "rebellions have been caused by inflammatory statements" and in uttering public criticisms people must be governed by the law.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the digestive tract. Then gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, and the world looks pink.

It takes three mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 25¢ at any drugstore.

FROM THE FANSTAND

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Editor

Performance of K Chorlton with the Victoria Athletics is being closely followed by heads of the Coast League Seattle Rainiers who own his contract. I learned this over the weekend during a talk with Earl Sheely, general manager of the Suda. Big Earl wanted to know what the young outfielder was hitting and showed a keen interest in his work defensively. As a matter of fact he showed some concern over Chorlton's being moved out of the infield.

At the start of the season the Rainiers informed the Athletics they were interested in attempting to make an infielder out of Chorlton, but the experiment proved a failure when the youngster couldn't prove himself at second base, shortstop or third. In all three positions he looked badly out of position.

Lassen Asks About Lester

Dropped in for a chat with my old friend Leo Lassen. As usual the radio broadcaster was complaining about the heat in his two-by-four cubicle suspended from the top of the grandstand roof. To be quite frank I don't know how he works under such conditions.

Lassen asked after the health of Lester Patrick. "You know Lester and I have been friends since the days when I worked as a cub reporter on the old Seattle Star," he remarked. "Say, that must be 35 years ago; much too long."

Couldn't resist the chance to kid Lassen about the long losing streak of the Rainiers during the early part of the season.

"Yeah, we sure got off to a poor start but right now Seattle is playing better ball than either top-place Hollywood or runner-up San Diego. They got an awful jump on us in the early stages owing to having better-balanced line-ups. However, since the Rainiers bolstered their catching and got more depth in the outfield the team has been rolling. Right now the Rainiers can hold their own with any other outfit in the league."

Brown Seeks Help For Caps

During my visit to the stadium noticed Bob Brown, boss of the Vancouver Capilanos, closeted with Sheely for over an hour. No doubt he was seeking some help for his disappointing Caps. In recent weeks the Vancouver club's pitching staff has collapsed and two good replacements are a must if the team is ever going to scramble out of the second division. Failure of Bob Costello and Hunk Anderson to come up with winning performances has been the biggest blow.

Should Forget Personalities

Action of spectators at amateur sports events in picking on the individual athletes is hard to understand. How sports followers can engage in personalities at the expense of a certain performer leaves this writer cold. After all, these athletes are engaging in sport for the love of the game with no material gain. Just because they may be performing for a club that lacks the backing of the crowd is no reason for them to be subjected to vicious razzing. They are providing the entertainment and doing their best to give the fans first-class competitive play. Is that any reason to treat them to verbal blasts that question their mentality, general conduct et al? It is surprising what a fan figures he is entitled to for his admission.

Amazing Herb Parsons Shows Here Next Week

"Most amazing exhibition of shooting I've ever seen," said veteran Victoria sportsman Ernie D. Todd.

He was referring to Herb Parsons, rated as America's fastest gun handler, who will give a spectacular public shooting exhibition at the Albert Head Road grounds of the Victoria Gun Club a week tonight.

Todd, Stuart Ahern and Dr. A. D. Bechtel, all ranking sportsmen shooters, saw Parsons display his wizardry with guns at Spokane a couple of weeks ago and came back with the word to the boys here "you are going to see a class show." His continent-wide tours are sponsored by the ammunition and gun manufacturing firms of Western-Winchester.

Roger Monteith, president of the Victoria Gun Club, is endeavouring to make it possible for high school children of the area to see the exhibition without cost. He is arranging special transportation.

Parsons stresses safety practices in the handling of firearms which will benefit all of the younger generation who will be taking the game trials as they grow older. He will answer questions and discuss shooting with his audience.

AMAZING ACTS

Parsons is a self-taught genius with guns. Using a .22 calibre rifle he throws a hard maple block into the air, cracks the block and splinters the pieces. He shoots four bullets at them in three seconds. In another amazing feat, Parsons throws three clay pigeons behind him, between his legs, reaches for his model 12 shotgun, swings around and shatters them before they hit the ground.

He uses 10 rifles, shotguns and pistols and keeps up a running fire of humorous comment.

Indians' Sharpshooter

Mel Jones of the Indians made big gain in individual scoring race of Intercity Lacrosse League last week, scoring eight goals and four assists to jump from 12th place to fifth. Jones will be closely watched when Indians meet Shamrocks at Memorial Arena tonight at 8.30.

Great Cyclone Taylor Goes Into Retirement

VANCOUVER (CP) — Frederick W. (Cyclone) Taylor, often hailed as the greatest hockey player Canada ever produced, will retire from his Federal Immigration post here next week.

The last time Cyclone Taylor retired was 28 years ago when he left Vancouver Millionaires and professional hockey after a spectacular career — a career Lester Patrick, former manager of New York Rangers, says has never been matched.

This time Taylor retires as district superintendent for British Columbia and Yukon for the Canadian Immigration Service, a post he has held since 1931. The former puck wizard, now 65, was reluctant to divulge his future plans.

Taylor was born in Tara, Ont., and began playing hockey with the neighboring Listowel team. He turned professional in 1905 with Houghton Portage Lakes of the first professional hockey league, the International. From there he went to Ottawa, Stanley Cup winners in 1909, and to Renfrew Millionaires in 1919. In 1912 Taylor joined Vancouver Millionaires and for seven years wrote some brilliant pages of hockey's history.

Will Join Appling, Moses As Member Of 2,000-Hit Club

CHICAGO (AP)—Only nine base hits to go for Joe Dimaggio to join the exclusive 2,000-hit club.

Although the Yankee clipper is hitting a dull .247, he's almost a cinch to go over the top during New York's current western tour.

When Joe makes the grade, he'll be in high society. The only active major-leaguers in the 2,000-hit club are Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox with 2,733 and Wally Moses of Philadelphia A's with 2,060. There are none in the National League.

Dimaggio, now 35, is the youngest of the bunch. Appling is 41, according to the record books. Since Red Corriden replaced Jack Onslow as manager, Luke has confined himself largely to coaching duties. Moses is 38.

Lately it's been homer or nothing for Dimaggio. Ten of his 44 hits are homers. He's still the major-league leader in home runs, with a lifetime total of 327 since he broke into the majors in 1936.

First Place Prize In Boxla Battle Tonight

How close can the Intercity Lacrosse League race get? The way things stack up today after Burrards' 16 to 9 victory over Indians in Vancouver last night, four teams are tied for second place two points behind the league-leading Adanacs.

And right smack in the middle of the dogfight are Indians and Shamrocks who meet tonight at the Memorial Arena at 8.30 in the first game to be played here this season under the seven-man rules.

Both Shamrockers and Indians boast identical season's records of five wins and four defeats but in the only game played between the two clubs Shamrocks two weeks ago defeated the tribe 12 to 4.

OFFENCE VS. DEFENCE

Indians are the highest scoring club in the league and also own the best goalkeeper in the matter of shots stopped in Stan Joseph. However, looking at it from a Shamrock viewpoint it's a slightly different tale. The rocks have the best goals-against record of any club in the circuit and in Bill Andrews have the second best netminder on a percentage of shots stopped basis. It adds up to pitched battle with a share of first place going to the winner.

Burrards, who were prime movers behind the return to seven-man lacrosse, showed their reasons last night as they led from start to finish. Veteran Walt Lee of the Dominion champions blanked Indians in the first quarter while his mates built up a 2 to 0 lead.

GOALIES BRILLIANT

On top of 3 at the half, Burrards outscored their opponents 5 to 3 in both the final two periods. Lee stopped 28 shots in the Burrard goal while Joseph handled 29 safely in the Indians' net.

Roy Pinder and Smith paced the winners, each with three goals. Mel Jones sparked the tribe with a trio of markers.

In tonight's other game Richmond-Kerrisdale meet Salmonbellies on the mainland. Salmonbellies are currently tied with Shamrocks, Burrards and Indians for fourth place while Richmond rest in the league cellar.

To Play Off For Rose Bowl Trophy

Burnside and Victoria West Lawn Bowling Clubs tied in the Butchart Rose Bowl interclub series Monday, ending with six points apiece.

Canadian Pacific ran a close second with a five-point total. Playoff to decide the trophy winner will be held on the Canadian Pacific greens next Monday at 1.30.

Canada To Continue Ban On Pork Exports To U.S.

But Subsidy On Bacon Sent To U.K.
Will Still Be Paid, Gardiner States

OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture Minister James Gardiner indicated in the House of Commons Tuesday night there will be no early removal of the ban on the export of pork products to the United States.

Announcing the 3½ cents a pound subsidy on bacon required to fill a 60,000,000-pound contract with the United Kingdom would be continued beyond June 30, Mr. Gardiner said. "All other regulations with regard to the handling of pork products will go along in the same manner as they are going along now." This was interpreted to mean there will be no early removal of the ban on U.S. shipments.

It is expected payment of the subsidy will continue at least until the United Kingdom contract requirements are filled. So far, largely as a result of high domestic prices and heavy domestic consumption, the government has obtained only about 13,000,000 of the 60,000,000 pounds of bacon required for Britain. The government buys the bacon at 32½ cents a pound and sells it to the United Kingdom at 29 cents. The loss of 3½ cents a pound is charged to the government's revolving $200,000,000 price-support program.

ESTIMATES PASSED
Discussion of the 1950-51 agriculture department estimates—subsequently passed by the House—touched on these points: 1. Mr. Gardiner said the best way to maintain cordial relationships between Canada and the U.K. was for Britain to "take our food in the same free way during peacetime as they did during wartime."

2. The government's freight assistance policy on feed grains moving to eastern Canada and British Columbia from the prairies will be continued for another year and will be reconsidered next year in the light of a report being prepared by the Royal Commission on Transportation. 3. Maritime members urged government action to provide better storage, better marketing and steps to create a demand for potatoes.

4. Mr. Gardiner said the South Saskatchewan River irrigation project has reached a stage where he can discuss with the Saskatchewan government whether work should go ahead. He hopes to meet Saskatchewan officials next week.

5. The minister said bills extending prairie farm rehabilitation assistance in the west and reclamation of marshlands in the east probably will be introduced at the next session of Parliament. He did not elaborate.

DIRECT TALK

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, asked Mr. Gardiner to clarify his Monday statement that it was about time Canada stopped "talking nicely" to "one or two people" in Britain about food markets and to speak to them "directly."

Mr. Gardiner replied that the best way to maintain cordial relationships between Canada and the United Kingdom was for the U.K. to "take our food in the same free way during peacetime as they did during wartime."

That, he said, was what he had meant when he told the chamber "that we should speak to them bluntly."

He did not think there was any dollar-sterling question in the world or any dollar-sterling problem as between Canada and Great Britain that was more important than the maintenance of good relationships between the two areas.

Last year, it would have taken only $30,000,000 for Britain to have satisfied all the demands of Canadian agriculture as to the sale of food.

Vancouver City Workers Get Boost

VANCOUVER (CP)—City outside workers have voted in favor of accepting a five-cent hourly wage increase recommended by a conciliation board.

City Council is expected to accept the award. Donald Guise, business agent of the Civil Service Employees' Union (T.L.C.), Local 28, termed the vote taken Saturday "a critical vote of acceptance."

No End Of Purchase Tax Can Be Foreseen In U.K.

Must Be Permanent Part Of Economy Of Country, Chancellor Tells Commons

LONDON (CP)—Purchase tax, which makes an ordinary British radio two or three times as expensive as its Canadian counterpart, is here to stay.

Sir Stafford Cripps, brushing aside all Conservative arguments to the contrary, said the tax has replaced other indirect taxes, and must become a permanent feature of the economy.

Anyone who proposes to abolish the purchase tax, the Chancellor of the Exchequer said in the House of Commons, will have to find another way of raising £300,000,000 ($930,000,000) a year.

Sir Stafford was answering

Conservative criticisms of the finance bill, implementing provisions in Britain's 1950-51 budget. Anthony Eden, deputy Conservative leader, earlier had recommended appointment of a commission to study proposals for removing anomalies in the tax.

The purchase tax originally was introduced as a wartime expedient. It adds between 33 1/2 to 100 per cent to the retail price of a wide range of goods, varying from toothbrushes and greeting cards to radio and television sets.

During the last few years the government has refused to consider recommendations from trade and retail associations, whose annual conferences become more indignant at each session about what are claimed to be the hardships of the tax.

Currently, clothing organizations are trying to organize a revolt of housewives against the high price of clothes. One of the chief grievances is that the price differential is so great between utility goods, which are exempt from the purchase tax, and non-utility goods, which often bear the full tax.

Utility goods are those produced under standard specifications, with the idea of guaranteeing reasonable quality at low price. But the utility variety is sometimes hard to get.

PRICE OF SKIRTS

One standard complaint is that good-quality gabardine skirts sell at about 25s ($3.85), if you can get them, compared with 15s or more in the non-utility range.

Five objections to purchase tax were listed in a recent article by Reginald Maudling, newly-elected Conservative member for Barnet, near London. Maudling, regarded as one of the party's coming stars, said the purchase tax increases living costs; involves anomalies through a rapid change in tax rates; weighs most heavily on high-quality goods; sometimes affecting export goods in an indirect way; occasionally leaves traders holding substantial stocks of an article after the rate of tax has been reduced; and tends to create artificial wholesale margins.

Refresher Course Given R.C.M.P. Dogs On Prairies

YORKTON, Sask. (UP)—Twelve Royal Canadian Mounted Police dogs from various parts of the prairies were given an annual refresher course here in tracking down criminals and missing persons, locating stills and other feats of dogcraft.

Several of the canines already had earned reputations. "Tough" sniffed his way over seven miles of field and road near Calgary two years ago to turn up some fragments of a selective service form, which led to the capture of two men who had slugged a taxi driver.

"Dark's" sensitive nose located some home-brew near here three years ago after the farmer had buried it at the base of a tree in swampy land. Owner of the home-brew was so impressed with the dog that he offered to buy it from the R.C.M.P.

"Buck" found a little girl six hours after she had wandered from her home in the Fortier district of Manitoba.

The dogs were fed once a day. Their quota was one pound of meat for each 25 pounds of dog. The animals, all purebred German shepherds or cross-bred German shepherd types, weigh about 80 pounds each.

After playing through a half-dozen hands with increasing understanding of the game, 22-year-old Eve Christie raised the bidding to seven spades—much to the consternation of her partner, Fred Kerner.

When she was doubled, Miss Christie said: "This is a funny kind of hand."

That ended the bridge lesson. Their opponents, Kerner's wife Jean and Joe Carin, said they'd had enough.

New 'Phone Rates Effective JUNE 10

In an interim order, dated May 29, 1950, the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada authorized a new schedule of rates for the British Columbia Telephone Company. The new rates went into effect on June 10.

The next telephone bills received by subscribers will be based on the new rates. Because the billing dates vary with the different exchanges, most telephone bills will contain an adjustment between the old rates and the new for the period from June 10 to the billing date. In such cases, details will be shown on a statement enclosed with the bill. Because of these adjustments, the total rental charges on the first bill may be greater than on later bills.

"Dollar Discount" Abolished

As the "dollar discount" has been done away with, the amount to be paid by the subscriber is the amount shown on the bill. In other words, subscribers should not deduct $1 from the totals of their bills in making payment.

The surcharge on Monophones and desk telephones has been eliminated. This means that the charge is now the same for all kinds of telephone instruments.

New Rates Give 72.18% of Increase Sought

In its application to the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada on June 29 of last year, the Company requested approval of rates which would give an estimated increase in gross revenue of $2,261,741 per annum. The Board have now approved rates which will give the Company an estimated increase in gross revenue of $1,632,455 per annum, which is 72.18 per cent of the increase sought by it.

The new rates represent the first general increase received by the Company since 1921. The Company's application was based on increased costs.

New Zealand May End Its Legislative Council

But There Is Possibility It May Instead Be Transferred Into An Elective Body

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—New Zealand may this year become the only self-governing country of the British Commonwealth with a single-chamber legislature.

It is likely a bill will be introduced in Parliament to abolish the Upper House, the Legislative Council, as at present constituted. Whether there are plans to replace it with another chamber is not known.

To abolish the present Legislative Council it may be necessary for the government to nominate members, pledged to support the government's plans. The council is entirely a government-nominated body, in which members hold office for seven years. At present it has 31 members, of whom 25 are Labor supporters and opponents of the present government.

However, the size of the council is not fixed, so that if bills from the House of Representatives are obstructed, the government can nominate as many new members as it wishes to give it a firm majority.

The Legislative Council in recent years has played a very small part in the country's affairs. Very little legislation originates there and it has been used merely as a revising chamber to make minor changes thought advisable by the government after bills have passed the Lower House.

Provision for an elective legislative council has been on the statute book for many years and merely awaits proclamation to come into effect. But in spite of many moves to end its existence the present council has survived through the years in its present form. The act at present on the statute book is now out of date and is never likely to be proclaimed. However, the life of the council now seems definitely to be nearing an end. Prime Minister Sidney Holland twice introduced bills while leader of the opposition, to abolish the Upper House. His view is that at present the council is so much useless constitutional ballast which serves no good purpose and is a needless expense.

CAMPAIGN PLANK

Abolition of the council as at present constituted was a plank in the National Party's successful campaign at the general election last year. It undertook, however, to examine possible alternatives to "provide for some form of safeguard against hasty, unwise or ill-considered legislation," so the prospect of an elective Upper House is not excluded.

It was at first believed the government would leave this important constitutional change until more urgent tasks were completed during its first year of office. However, the belief is now widely held in political quarters that proposals to deal with the question have already been drafted.

Farmers Advised Not To Cut Trees

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (BUP)—Provincial agriculture officials have advised farmers in newly-broken areas to leave trees around their land so that topsoil wouldn't blow away.

The officials said shelter-belts of trees, planted across fields at 40-foot intervals, would cut down wind erosion and would trap snow for spring moisture.

They said farmers could get trees free from the federal forest nursery station at Indian Head, Sask.

Judge 25 Years On Quebec Bench

HULL, Que. (CP)—Mr. Justice H. A. Fortier of the Supreme Court of Quebec, prominent in the political and judicial life of Ottawa and Hull for many years, will mark an important anniversary this year.

The veteran jurist has been a member of the Quebec bar for 51 years and a justice of the Supreme Court for 25 years.

He attended Laval University in Montreal and later took his classical studies at St. Therese, Que. He was admitted to the Quebec bar in 1899 and began his practice in Hull.

Mr. Justice Fortier served as a member of the Legislative Assembly in Quebec for Labelle from 1912 to 1917. Then he moved to the federal parliament as member for the same constituency. He remained a member of the House of Commons until 1925, when he was appointed to the Quebec Superior Court.

During the Second World War, Mr. Justice Fortier served for three years at Petawawa Military Camp as commissioner for internees and was later appointed commissioner of the exemption board at Quebec City.

Island Chambers Meet At Sidney This Evening

Two-day convention of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island opens this evening in Sidney with more than 20 chambers from all parts of the island represented.

Canada, U.S. Eliminating Double Taxes

OTTAWA (CP)—New steps have been taken by Canada and the United States to avoid double taxation of their citizens and to tighten regulations designed to prevent income tax evasion.

Under terms of two agreements signed in Ottawa, Canadians will be able to obtain increased exemptions in United States earnings, while Americans will enjoy similar privileges in Canada.

One amendment will allow a Canadian temporarily in the U.S. to earn up to $5,000 there for personal or professional services in any one year without being subject to U.S. income tax, providing he is not in the U.S. for a period, or periods, exceeding 183 days.

The same exemptions are granted by Canada to U.S. citizens.

School Sales Tax Share In Chamber Resolution

Ferry Service, Work On Highways, Bounties Among Discussions For Island Trade Boards

A request that the provincial government pass regulations making it mandatory for municipal councils to place at least 50 per cent of all funds received from the 3 per cent sales tax to the credit of the school boards within its district, is made in a resolution going before the Association of Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

In the resolution to be introduced at the opening of the two-day convention of the association in Sidney tonight, the group points out that Education Minister W. T. Straith had publicly stated it was the intention of the government that part of the funds from this tax be used for education purposes.

In another resolution, the association is asked to request the provincial government to keep careful observations on the changing situation on Salt Spring Island regarding the ferry service.

The group said the transportation of passengers and goods both by road and ferry service, were not equal to the demand of the increasing number of residents on Salt Spring Island.

The chambers are asked to resolve to make a determined effort to have the bounty of cougars increased to $100 each. All possible pressure would be brought to bear on the government ensuring the completion of the highway between Jordan River and Port Renfrew in another resolution.

Also on the agenda is a resolution to reconsider the Trans-Canada Highway from Tofino north.

DIALING SYSTEM
From the Victoria Chamber the present problems of the one-letter dialing system employed by the B.C. Telephone Company and the limitations of the directory will be discussed.

First resolution up for discussion concerns merchantable timber being made available for purchase by tender to the people of B.C. subject to the same rates of taxation as imposed upon other crop-producing land. Also that private owners be made responsible for the proper management, care and protection of the land and its yield potential.

One of the most important resolutions facing chambers concerns the action to be taken should a member chamber fail to conform to the policies of the association. In such cases, disqualification and ineligibility to further function within the association will be the result.

THIEVES TAKE WATCHDOG

LONDON (AP)—Thieves at the Avenue Hotel early today stole 4,800 cigarettes, 140 bottles of liquor, a radio set and a watchdog named Sally.

Police Hunting Bad Prankster

CALGARY (BUP)—Police are looking for a not-so-funny prankster who sent two ambulances and a mounted police car on a wild goose chase on the Banff highway.

Someone called Starr's ambulance reporting a bad accident on the road. Two ambulances were dispatched and got as far as Cochrane without sighting a wreck. From there, mounted police went as far west as Canmore. No crash scene was found.

The owner of the ambulance firm—William Pitt—charges that "only a fool would pull a trick like that." Every time an ambulance leaves the city, it leaves one less in the event there was a major accident. It may have meant the life of some injured person.

PANTS RENT CONTROLLED; WRENS KEEP HOME AFTER NEST BUILT

CHATHAM, N.J. (AP)—A couple of birds who settled into Oreste Abbazia's newly-washed trousers two weeks ago now have undisputed possession.

Abbazia gave up the trousers. The two house wrens plunked their nest into the trousers shortly after Mrs. Abbazia hung out her washing two Monday days ago.

For two weeks Abbazia waited, hoping that the birds were merely transients.

But Tuesday Abbazia ceded the pants. Mrs. Abbazia announced proudly that the birds are no transients: the nest in his trousers now contains four eggs.

Esquimalt Ships To Sail During August For Europe

Three destroyers from Esquimalt naval base will leave early in August for a three-months tour of Europe, Naval Headquarters at Ottawa has announced.

The destroyers Cayuga, Athabaska and Sioux will first join a special service squadron in Halifax before sailing overseas. The squadron will include the carrier Magnificent and the destroyers Huron and Micmac from Halifax.

Rear-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, Flag Officer Atlantic Coast, will be in command of the squadron.

First port of call will be Londonderry, where the ships and Magnificent's air squadrons will carry out two weeks' intensive anti-submarine training at the joint anti-submarine training school operated by the Royal Navy and the Royal Air Force.

The west coast ships are scheduled to return to Esquimalt Dec. 18.

Tofino Highway Terminus Proposed As Logical Move

The standing road committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island is preparing at the opening of the two-day convention in Sidney tonight to use the strongest possible means and pressure to have the Nanaimo-Port Alberni highway completed to a terminus at Tofino at the earliest possible date.

In its argument pressing for the Tofino terminus, the association points out that failure of the Provincial Government to construct a road to Tofino would be a serious blow to the Government's road building program.

West Coast of Vancouver Island remained isolated from the rest of the island.

The group also draws attention to the fact much wealth was lost to citizens of B.C. due to the low rate of development of important natural resources in fishing, lumbering, and mining.

A demand that the Provincial Government commence construction at once bringing the Nanaimo-Port Alberni highway to Tofino will be considered by the association. The group may advocate construction of this highway be given priority in the Government's road building program.

LITTLE JOHN puts his whole heart into reading a primary sentence. Behind him, his young sister leans forward on her desk, anxiety all over her face when he makes a mistake. When she catches an adult watching her, she ducks her head and giggles.

The two small children are learning English at the Chinese Benevolent Association School. They spoke only Chinese up to March of this year. Now they are mastering simple words, reading "Tom sees Don" sentences to visitors, and enjoying it. They're part of a small class of youngsters being taught a new language so they may go to public school in the country where the family has made its home.

THE CLASS is reversing the usual routine at the Chinese institution. Ordinarily students go there from 4 to 6 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 at night to learn Chinese, the tongue of their fathers, after they have finished their regular sessions in the city schools.

In their simple way, John and his sister are doing what the Chinese community has been doing for several years — becoming part of Canada, but keeping some of the traditions of the land of their origin. Informed Chinese seem happy about the transition. Since the war they have been exposed to fewer and fewer embarrassing incidents. The way they intermingle with their fellow citizens is giving them a better sense of Canadianism.

A large number, probably the majority of the 2,700 people of Chinese origin in Victoria, were born here. This is their country. It's been good to most of them and they appreciate it. They're not inclined to talk about it, because they think such talk emphasizes the differences that are disappearing.

IF YOU CAN persuade a young Canadian of Chinese origin to take you through Chinatown, you'll find him quietly proud of some of the modern stores. He may take particular pleasure in escorting you to one of the oldest and best stores still specializing in delicacies that go into a first-class Chinese meal. In open crates or under glass you'll see quantities of small dried fish, dried oysters, shark fins that you can buy at $5.50 a pound, tasty bits of devilfish, and packages of tea — green tea that doesn't lose its flavor or become bitter after it's brewed. Close to it you'll find the more common fare of the ordinary grocery. But if you want fresh water chestnuts, or some of the less well-known ingredients that go into a Chinese banquet, you can find them there.

Many of the old stores in Chinatown are vacant. Their owners or occupants have moved away to other parts of town and draw their business from an unrestricted clientele.

AMONG THE younger people, social life is much as it is with others of their age in town. There are few bars, and friendships between different groups are increasing.

There still are the special Chinese social groupings. The tong, which hasn't anything to do here with hatchmen or blood feuds, is an important agency of a fraternal nature — an organization that does a certain amount of welfare work and looks after its members' interests.

In Victoria, Wah Quon, president of the Chinese Benevolent Association, holds a position equivalent to that of an unofficial mayor. He has been elected to his post by members of the community, exercises wide influence and is held in high respect.

THERE ARE definite assets in keeping up some of these groups. Among other things, they help to preserve the unity of the family and to maintain the traditional position of the father. Politically, most people of Chinese origin in this region are Nationalist in sympathy. They may appreciate the mistakes of the Kuomintang, but they learn from their newspaper that relatives in China are becoming less favorably impressed by the Communists. You get the impression that the little man in China was dissatisfied with the Kuomintang and gambled on the Reds. Now, he's beginning to think it was a poor gamble.

KIEN YEH WU, editor of the New Republic, keeps his countrymen informed here. Daily at 5 in the morning, he pipes in short-wave radio reports from Hong Kong and has his own correspondent there for cable and air-mail dispatches. The paper — the front page is on the back and it's read from right to left — is handset by a compositor walking up and down a long aisle to pick his type from boxes containing 7,000 different characters.

No Petition Received Yet On Secession

Municipal Affairs Minister R. C. MacDonald has received no petition from residents of the Cadboro Bay-Ten Mile Point-Gordon Head area for permission to secede from Saanich municipality, and until he has there will be no comment.

"I'd rather not express a view on this question until I have received some official notification of the reported move," he said today.

The same applied to a report that a section of the former Ward One area was moving for union with Oak Bay municipality the same as the other district which was Ward Three.

On the secession of the former Ward Six rural area the minister said three steps must be taken:

1. The government must receive a petition from the area wishing to secede, asking for incorporation of a new municipality.

2. Agreement must be reached between the area and the parent municipality on division of assets and liabilities, and current taxes.

3. Legislation must be passed incorporating an agreement stating responsibility for paying debts.

On Tuesday Mr. MacDonald said he thought the former Ward Six area should be allowed to break away in view of the opinion expressed by the people of Saanich in the plebiscite taken last Saturday.

Water Shortage In D.P.'s House Brings Charge

The city water board shut off the water supply to the 1753 Rockland Avenue house occupied by a Polish displaced person and his family because of non-payment of a water bill, Magistrate Henry C. Hall heard in city police court today.

Owner Mrs. Marie Guiney, 1003 Carberry Gardens, was ordered by the magistrate to take immediate steps to provide the family with water. He found her guilty of the charge of failing to supply the water, contrary to the provincial sanitary regulations and remanded the case to Thursday to learn if accused had rectified the condition.

Charge was first laid against Miss Jean Maria Guiney. This was withdrawn and the charge laid against Mrs. Guiney after she explained that her daughter, Jean, the original owner, had died six months ago.

Carpenters Against Arbitration In Wage, Union Shop Talks

FLOOR EXPERTS EXPECTED SOON

Acceptance of an invitation to survey the arena floor next week is expected from prominent out-of-town men, Ald. F. G. Mulliner, chairman of the arena committee, and Ald. William Pinfold, member, reported to Mayor Percy George today.

The two aldermen returned to Victoria today after several days on the mainland.

"None of the parties concerned in the dispute will be advised of the names until inspection is due," the aldermen stated.

Eagles Name Main Speakers For Gathering

Principal speakers at the Eagles' convention here this week-end will be Lester H. Lobie, Helena, Mont., attorney, and James B. Washington, Parkville, northwest regional vice-president of the fraternal organization, convention officials announced today.

More than 2,000 persons are expected to attend functions arranged in conjunction with the three-day meeting which starts Friday. Of this number, 300 are actual delegates from Eagle lodges throughout B.C.

Mr. Lobie, who is chairman of the Eagles' national ritualistic committee, will speak on national objectives of the order, including extension of social security, youth guidance programs, child health and aid for the handicapped.

GRAND AERIE OFFICE

Mr. Washington, first Canadian in recent years to win a grand aerie office, will speak on current objectives of the Eagles.

Highlight of extra events to be staged will be the pageant at the Memorial Arena Saturday night. There will be U.S. and Canadian drill teams, bands, dancers, acrobats and motor-cycling dare-devils on the program—all attired in colorful uniforms and regalia.

More than 500 persons will take part in the pageant.

MOTORIST FINED

In a collision on June 9 in which only slight damage was done, motorist John J. Muirhead, R.R. 1, East Saanich Road, was fined $35 by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

Exchange Directors Meeting Today To Consider Suggestions Of Board

Victoria carpenters seeking a 20 cent hourly wage increase and union shop are not in favor of arbitration rather than conciliation on the question, it was learned today from a representative of the union.

The Labor Relations Board suggested that arbitration be accepted instead of conciliation and the carpenters discussed the question at a Prince Robert House meeting Tuesday night.

Directors of the Victoria Building Industries' Exchange, representing employers, were planning on discussing the suggestion at a meeting later today.

Arbitration would make the findings of the board, being set up to deal with the dispute between the carpenters and their employers, binding on both parties. In conciliation the findings do not have to be accepted by either party.

LOWERED AMOUNTS

Carpenters now are being paid $1.55 an hour. They asked for $1.75 but, during negotiations, lowered the amount to $1.68. The builders' exchange offered $1.60, to stand for two years.

It was not accepted and application was made for conciliation proceedings.

The board of conciliators probably will be set up by the end of the week.

Charged with unlawfully obtaining money by false pretenses through a worthless cheque R. Blakeney, commercial fisherman, was remanded to Friday without plea by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today. James J. Proudfoot is Blakeney's counsel.

Blowout Not Accident Cause

City police traffic investigators labeled as untrue a story by a motorist that a tire blow-out was the cause of an accident in which he was involved recently on Heywood Avenue.

Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, conveyed this information to Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today, from the officers' report in the case of James Walter McDonnell, young sailor, charged with dangerous driving. He pleaded guilty.

McDonnell collided with a parked car. Nearly $300 damage was done to the U-Drive car he was driving and about $50 damage done to the parked vehicle. Magistrate Hall imposed a fine of $50 and suspended the sailor's license for three months.

Demand Great, Supply Small
For Peaches And Apricots

By PENNY SAVER

Come gather 'round my soap box, good women of the house, hold and hark to the sad story I must tell, as related to me this morning in a number of grocery stores. Conditions what prevail are definitely, as the great Durante would say, a catastrophe! According to the men behind the counters, apricots and peaches are going to have but a brief gaudy stay in this city, or any other city, for that matter. Approximately 5 per cent of the usual amount of fruit to come to us from the Okanagan, will make an appearance this summer. For the most part California will be relied upon to make the greatest contribution to the fruit supply. You know what that means, kids, a few more shekels on the counter, please!

Well, kizens on the keys, we'll just have to make do with what we have and, after all, the outlook is nary so bad. By the way, the price on the little California apricots for canning are 25 pennies a pound and Bing cherries, 52 cents per pound. As yet I've not seen peaches displayed anywhere.

Firm and ripe bananas sell for 20 cents the pound... watermelon, as low as 8 pennies a pound... cantaloupes look good, but are a few pennies higher at 19 cents each. Gooseberries introduced themselves last week and are yours for 33 cents a pound... California Beauty plums will cost you 35 cents for a pound and oranges 2 pounds for 27 cents.

To fill the salad bowl let's take

TODAY'S RECIPE

"Ham Jam" With Rice

Last scraps of baked ham are no problem if you just remember "ham jam"—a good dish seasoned to taste with salt, pepper, tabasco or red pepper. Some will like a dash of sugar. It's a kind of Creole mixture with the baked ground ham tossed in—then cooked "low."

Of course it's served on a bed of hot fluffy white rice. To be sure your rice is cooked just right; to be sure it is at its best; with each grain separate and tender—use the famous genuine Chinese method described below. Then all the cooking water containing valuable nutrients will be absorbed into the grain... it will be saved for your family!

Two cups ground ham (baked), 1 No. 2's can drained tomatoes, salt and pepper, tabasco or red pepper, 3 cups cooked rice (1 cup uncooked), 1 onion, 3 tablespoons bacon drippings, 1/2 green pepper.

PREPARING RICE

Put 1 cup of rice, 1 teaspoon of salt and 2 cups of cold water in a two-quart saucepan, and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until it boils vigorously. Reduce heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more, during which time water will be absorbed, making rice deliciously tender. Remove lid, permit rice to steam dry to the desired consistency and the grains will be separate and fluffy. Never stir rice. Lift rice gently with a fork when testing its consistency. This produces very firm rice grains. If you prefer more tender grains, use 1/4 cup additional water for each cup of rice used, and increase slow cooking period 4 or 5 minutes.

METHOD
In a large skillet sauté the onion, minced pepper and bacon drippings. When the vegetables are soft, add tomatoes and season well. Then add the ground ham and let the entire dish simmer slowly for half an hour. Serve over hot fluffy rice. This will serve 4 or 5 persons.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRID

The prospective mother supplies her own increased body needs and those of her baby through her own diet. If she is to retain her own sound teeth, her hair and the strength of her bones and muscles, she must eat properly. If she is to bear a healthy child, it must be nourished by the food she eats.

Basic diets are not unfamiliar to the average individual these days and it is very simple to memorize what such diets contain and see that the menu is planned to furnish them.

Chief of the essential elements is protein. This is the element which builds cells. The repair of the mother's own body and the development of the baby's depend upon a generous supply of this cell-building food. Milk, meat, eggs, cheese, nuts are complete proteins, though there are many other foods containing incomplete proteins. Two to four cups of milk a day, two servings of meat, fish, fowl, cheese or one to two eggs, with extra servings of foods containing milk, will provide the mother with sufficient protein for her full needs.

Whole grain cereals contain minerals and vitamins not present in the refined cereals. So it is wise to provide both breads and breakfast foods of the whole grains. One serving of cereal and three slices of bread will suffice for the day.

The body needs fats, but not in excessive amounts. The prospective mother would do well not to burden her digestion with too many fats. The fat provided by one pat of butter, the cream on a whole quart of milk and what little might be present in natural gravies is sufficient at this period.

Fruits and vegetables are low in calories and can satisfy the mother's appetite for bulk without causing her to gain weight. All the green and yellow vegetables, eaten both cooked and raw, plus all kinds of fruits, especially the citrus varieties, will balance the diet of "heavier" foods and provide the essential vitamins and minerals.

In addition to the above, the doctor may order extra iron and additional vitamin D which later is as necessary for the pregnant woman as it is to the growing baby after birth.

Our leaflet No. 1 "The Prospective Mother," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldrid in care of this newspaper.

Harmonium Traveled Pioneer
Trails, Still Yields A Tune

LADYSMITH (CP)—More than 100 years old, a harmonium that has traveled thousands of miles over pioneer trails of western Canada still is in strong voice.

The veteran music maker, now owned by Mrs. John Simpson, was brought from England in the early 1800's by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunt, who served as pioneer Church of England missionaries in the wilderness of northern Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Mrs. Hunt played the compact keyboard instrument which functions with metal reeds similar to an organ, at the wilderness services. Her health began to fail and in 1862 she and her husband returned to England.

The harmonium had been transported by canoe, horseback and by Indian carrier down the Mackenzie River, the Winnipeg, Slave, Churchill and Bear Lakes. It had been taken overland to Rocky Mountain House, to York Factory and The Pas, Man.

Mrs. Simpson's father, Charles Adams, who was employed by the Hudson's Bay Company, bought the instrument and it has remained in the family.

It still yields a "stirring tune" every time she plays it; the bellows are as powerful as ever. All it needs is a bit of tuning. But Mrs. Simpson isn't going to experiment. She thinks the harmonium has lasted well as it is.

Married In Metropolitan Church

Mr. and Mrs. Victor A. Redlick were married in Metropolitan United Church recently and are now making their home at Jordan River. The bride, the former Joan Leslie Cross, is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Cross, and her husband is the son of Mrs. K. Redlick, all of Victoria. (Photo by Jonas Studio)

MacDonald-MacKillop Rites Of Interest In Nova Scotia

Creating interest on the east coast as well as in this city was the marriage of Daisy A. MacKillop and Alexander Young MacDonald in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church vestry on June 3. The bride, attended by her sister, Miss Florence MacKillop, Ottawa, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm MacKillop, Baddeck, N.S. A member of the staff of Royal Bank of Canada, main branch, the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. MacDonald, also of the eastern city. For the afternoon service performed by Rev. J. L. W. McLean, the bride donned blue Chantilly lace over taffeta, with sweetheart neckline and full skirt. Her head-dress of white lattice net was adorned with tiny blue flowers, and she wore lace elbow-length mitts in blue. Pink rosebuds were intermingled with lily of the valley and violets in her bouquet. Lavender-hued, sheer net over satin was selected by her sister. A Peter Pan collar completed the jacket topping a full-gathered skirt. Miss MacKillop selected a lavender net headpiece, and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink roses, valley lily and violets. George Hack was best man. Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald spent their honeymoon in Vancouver and have returned to Victoria to make their home. For travel the bride wore a trim blue tulle complemented with navy, pink and white accessories.

Mabel Burnett Circle Tea Realizes $25 For Flood Fund

The sum of $25, proceeds from a silver tea held by Mabel Burnett Circle at the home of Mrs. T. Fulthorp, 447 Kingston Street, was sent to the Mayor's Fund for Flood Relief. Mrs. H. Gibson was co-hostess with Mrs. Fulthorp. Mrs. H. Fulthorp and Mrs. C. Lamb assisted as servitors. Special guests included Mrs. N. Miller, Mrs. B. Still and Mrs. F. Guy, Winnipeg, and Mrs. M. Shanks, Vancouver. During the business session preceding the tea, Mrs. R. Standerwick, president, was in the chair. It was noted that the circle had donated $20 to flood relief and $20 to arthritis drive. A further donation of $20 was made to Salvation Army. Food parcels are being sent to an adopted family in Sheffield, Eng. Plans were made for a tea in Douglas Room, Hudson's Bay Co., on June 20, from 2.30 to 4.30. Mrs. J. Smith will convene the affair, assisted by Mesdames J. Cressy, M. Wood and G. Hammond. Mrs. H. Gibson and Mrs. Fulthorp will be in charge of novelty and home cooking stall.

CAME TO STUDY, STAYS TO MARRY

LONDON (CP) — Helen Peart of Montreal came to London to study the work of the work of the Labor government, and found a husband.

Miss Peart, a 34-year-old brunette, will be married June 16 at St. Marybone Town Hall to Robert McCullagh, unsuccessful Labor candidate in the Feb. 23 general election.

McCullagh, 41, met the Canadian girl at a Fabian Society meeting and proposed four months later.

East Guides Garden Party

A sum of $150 was realized at the annual garden party sponsored by Girl Guide Association, East Victoria District, last Saturday at the home of Mrs. Keith MacDougall, 1670 Hampshire Road.

Miss Kathleen Agnew opened the affair and was presented with a corsage bouquet of roses by little Ann MacDougall.

Guides of Sixth East Company and brownies of Fourth and Sixth and Edith Cavell companies were present and gave the Grand Howl for Miss Agnew.

Victoria Boys' Band, directed by C. H. Rowles, was in attendance.

Baptist Young People Hold Banquet

Seventy guests attended the annual banquet of Victoria Baptist Young Peoples' Union, held recently at First Baptist Church.

Union colors, yellow and blue, were used in decorations with a large replica of the young peoples' crest, made by Doug Hannington, above the head table.

Following the banquet there was a sing song led by Vic Atchison and musical numbers by Vera Sager, Eileen Orr and Bob Kroeger. Toast to the church was given by Doug Hannington with reply by Rev. W. L. McKay and to the union by Rev. G. R. Easter, with reply by R. W. Clarke. Greetings from the Lower Mainland Young Peoples' Association were given by Don McKinnon. Guest speaker was Kutch Imaeyshi, president, Baptist Union of Western Canada.

Retiring president, Miss Margaret Orr was thanked for her year's work by Rev. Barton.

Election of officers was as follows: President, Arthur G. Sutherland; vice-president, Robert Kroeger; secretary, treasurer, Florence E. Clarke; councillors, Rev. Barton and Rev. McKay; social convener, Olive Garven; newspaper editor, R. D. Taylor.

Garden Fete — Canadian Daughters' League Assembly No. 5, met with President Mrs. H. S. Hewitt in the chair. Arrangements were completed for a garden party to be held June 28, at the home of Mrs. W. D. Morgan, 1230 Victoria Ave. A miscellaneous stall will be convened by Mrs. N. Milburn and Mrs. Ledingham. Tea will be served by Mrs. Hemmon and Mrs. Hemming, general convener being Mrs. G. W. Bishop. Reports were given of successful bridge tea held recently; of Local Council meeting; of "I am a Canadian" day to be held at Beacon Hill Park on June 25 at 2.30 at which Mrs. G. H. Gardiner is general convener. It was decided to send parcels to aged friends in England this month. Mrs. Milburn read a paper on historical background of Newfoundland. Social meeting, last of the season, will be held June 26, when slides on trip to Scotland will be shown.

Jewels Worth Millions Flash When Place Vendome Celebrates Birthday

PARIS (AP) — When Paris' richest business district became 250 years old this month, shopgirls and waitresses started on a window-shopping spree.

Diamonds worth tens of millions of dollars were on view as merchants on the Place Vendome celebrated the 250th anniversary of their square by putting their most valuable jewels on display.

It was in June, 1700, that the fancy "Sun King," Louis XIV, opened the Plaza, in which his own statue was the centerpiece. He built only the facades of the buildings, and then hinted to his wealthy friends that they should buy the facades and build stores and business houses there. They did. The modern firms include such concerns as Elsa Schiaparelli's fashion and perfume house, the Ritz Hotel and the diamond and jewelry firms of Cartier, Van Cleef and Arpel, Boucheron, Melier and Maubousin.

Louis XIV no longer watches from his pedestal, however. About 100 years after the Place Vendome was founded, Napoleon Bonaparte melted down 1,200 captive bronze cannon and put his own likeness atop a tall stone column.

Thousands of Parisiens flocked down the world-famous Rue De La Paix and into the Place Vendome for the birthday party. One display, in the Boucheron window, was a coat of arms in the 17th century style that Louis XIV fancied. The insignia are in diamonds, totalling some 220 carats, and valued by Gerard Boucheron, its designer, at some $200,000.

Nearby, the windows of the venerable firm of Maubousin showed a veritable waterfall of diamonds worth nearly $1,000,000.

Just off the Place Vendome, named for one of the wealthy dukes of France who fought to protect Louis' crown, Cartier's exhibited one diamond necklace containing 20 perfect stones totalling 150 carats. Store officials declined to estimate its value, but $2,000,000, they said, "wouldn't even touch it."

Annual Musicale Features Outstanding City Talent

Spacious lounge at Oak Bay Beach Hotel will be setting Friday evening for the fourth annual musicale of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Norma MacDonald and Miss Frances Jordan of the hotel, with club president, Miss Marjorie Press, will act as hostesses for the evening and guests will include members of the club, their friends and anyone who is interested in musical talent in the city.

Mrs. J. Ingram Smith is in charge of the program which includes vocal, speech art, violin, piano and duo piano.

As with past musicales, the B. and P. W. Club is featuring Victorians of outstanding musical talent.

Following the program a coffee party is being arranged in the lower lounge, by Mrs. Mae McClement, social convener of the club.

Invited to preside at the refreshment table are Mrs. Paul W. Meyer, wife of the United States Consul at Victoria; Miss Minnie Beveridge, provincial president, B. and P. W. Clubs of British Columbia; Mrs. J. F. K. English, president, Victoria University Women's Club and Mrs. R. E.

Women Workers Higher Morale; Monday Unpopular

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (CP) — Investigations in a group of Midland industrial plants have shown that the morale of women workers may be higher than that of men. Dr. W. Baldamus and Miss Hilda Behrend, Birmingham University research experts, surveyed factories employing more than 10,000 workers. They found that among men, Monday is the least popular working day. Yet, owing to cumulative fatigue, absenteeism should be greatest at the end of the week. Monday absenteeism, they suggest, is an indication of low morale. Long-service workers were less inclined to stay away at the beginning of the week than newcomers. So were women. The report offered this explanation: "Women do not mind so much going back to the factory on Monday, since the week-end does not bring them true leisure. It involves work as hard as in the factory, especially for the married woman who has to face an additional burden of housework."

Rita To Polar Bear Women In Headlines

LONDON (CP) — Dr. Edith Summerskill, who often hits the headlines herself, says that women make the news. "Women can make or break a journalist," she told a ladies' night meeting of the London Press Club. "After all, who made the news? — Rita Hayworth, Ingrid Bergman and now a woman greater than any other, Brumas." Brumas is the four-month-old polar bear cub now drawing record attendances to Regent's Park Zoo. Dr. Summerskill, appointed minister of national insurance in the recent government reconstruction, addressed the press club on one of its two annual guest nights. "I have a horrid suspicion," she said, "that the women are invited on those two nights only to keep them sweet and reasonable for the other 363 nights."

Convention Hostess

Mrs. M. Carver, J.P.M.P., is acting as official chairman for all ladies' auxiliary activities during Fraternal Order of Eagles B.C. Provincial Aerie convention here on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Ladies' committees will be in attendance at Eagles' Hall, View Street, to welcome members and visitors. A luncheon in honor of past madam presidents is planned for Saturday at 12.30 in the Strathcona Hotel dining-room, where any visiting member may also attend. A tour of the residential districts of the city is arranged for Saturday afternoon at 4.

Ear-Piercing Back For London Women

LONDON (CP) — Women are queuing to have their ears pierced in order to wear the "chandelier" earrings which once more are fashionable in London. Most fashionable ear-piercer here is Cyril R. Wilkinson, who has "operated" on the Queen, the Duchess of Kent and the Duchess of Gloucester. He reckons to pierce an ear within a second, with a sensation about as painful as a pinprick. He uses a local anaesthetic. Business girls are flocking to his "clinic" during lunch hours.

Canada's birthrate increased by one-third between 1938 and 1948.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: What do you think of a mother who will not allow her son, who is nine years old, to play with other boys, but insists that he play with girls and keep clean and tidy like a girl? This boy is a real boy, full of life and fun, but his spirit is being broken. He wants to fish, play ball and boy games, get dirty and have the normal life of an honest-to-goodness boy. The father's heart aches for the boy, but he has no say in the matter. What about it?

A FRIEND OF THE BOY. Answer: Why hasn't the father said so about the boy? He is his son, isn't he? He hasn't any right to let a silly and neurotic woman blight the lad's childhood by suppressing all of his natural instincts and distort his character by her inhibitions, and when he fails to save his boy from the mother's baneful influence he is committing an unforgivable sin against him.

U.S. Sharpshooters Use 'Sniperscope' In Darkness

Army Develops Electronic Telescope Superior To Device Of World War II

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. Army has developed a "sniperscope" superior to the World War II type which was credited with contributing to 30 per cent of all the enemy casualties on Okinawa.

This electronic telescope with infra-red light source enables an infantry rifleman to see targets at night without being seen. It is now a standard item of army equipment.

After V-J Day the army disclosed that the scope had been used successfully in the Pacific. An army spokesman said the present scope is an improved type and that army scientists are continuing their efforts to make it still more effective.

The spokesman declined to say whether other nations have the weapon or how many the army has.

UNITS EQUIPPED

"It is now standard equipment," he said. "Units are to be equipped with it in accordance with availability and priority of supply."

It was disclosed previously that the army has asked for $8,654,418 during the fiscal year beginning July 1 for an additional 6,918 scopes at $1,251 each.

That amount, he said, includes an order for the sniperscope's twin brother, the "snooper-scope." For all purposes they are identical twins except that the "sniperscope" has brackets for attaching it to a weapon as a sight while the "snooper-scope" is fastened to a helmet and used for observation.

The army would not say how far a rifleman could see through the darkness with a scope, but the "sniperscope" is used on the M-2 .30-calibre carbine, a weapon with a 300-yard maximum effective range.

PORTABLE POWER

The M-1 rifle, standard army infantry foot soldier's weapon, has a 600-yard maximum effective range. But the M-1 also weighs nearly 10 pounds, while the M-2 barely tips the scales at six pounds.

The army said the scope's infra-red light is powered by a portable power pack carried on a rifleman's back.

The telescope, mounted on the carbine, is pointed toward sound in the darkness and the area is searched until the source of sound is found.

When the sniper switches on the invisible infra-red light, the rays are reflected from the object and the electronic telescope brings the image into the rifle's sights.

The Marine Corps borrowed some sniperscopes from the army and used them during World War II, a spokesman said. But he disclosed they have been returned to the army and are not now listed as standard equipment in the Marine Corps.

13 Members Of Parliament Natives Of U.S.

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canada may lose many of her bright young men to the United States, but a survey shows she gets plenty of politicians in return.

The United States has contributed more men to Canada's Parliament than any other nation. Two U.S. contributions play a prominent part in the direction of the nation's affairs—Trade Minister Howe and Public Works Minister Fournier.

over the years heavily outweighed that from the United States, 13 members of the present Parliament were born south of the border compared with 10 who started life in Britain.

Scotland, Ireland and Wales members, however, push the total United Kingdom representation to 21.

Four M.P.'s were born in Scotland, three in Ireland and one in Wales.

Only two other members were born outside Canada. David Croll, Liberal M.P. for Toronto-Spadina, started life in Moscow, and Victor Quetch, Social Credit member for Acadia, Alta., calls Georgetown, British Columbia, his birthplace.

Most of the one-time Americans came from the northern states. Stanley Knowles (C.C.F., Winnipeg North Centre) is the only U.S. member born south of the Mason-Dixon line. He spent the first 16 years of his life in Los Angeles.

The state of Massachusetts was the most popular birthplace for future Canadian M.P.'s. Three of them were born there—including two cabinet ministers. Trade Minister Howe was born at Waltham, Mass., and came to Canada when he was 22. Public Works Minister Fournier was born at Methuen, Mass., and arrived in Canada when he was 11 years of age.

Ex-Movie Star To Milk Cows

OTTAWA (BUP)—An Ottawa valley farmer shortly will have his cows milked by a former Hungarian movie star with a Barrymore profile.

The Hungarian, 39-year-old Horvath Ladislau, arrived here with a group of European immigrants to work on Canadian farms. After the immigrants had completed one year's service, they could take on new jobs.

Ladislau said he looked forward to concentrating on cows and plowing instead of love scenes. However, after his one year was up he hoped to establish a motion picture company in Toronto.

Ladislau showed reporters pictures of himself on the Hungarian stage and movie stills showing he played romantic lead in his homeland.

"My profile was famous in Europe and I was known as the matinee idol," he said.

Real Mealtime Magic!
GRAPE-NUTS BAKED CUSTARD

2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/4 to 1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk, scalded
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup Grape-Nuts

Combine eggs, sugar, and salt. Add milk gradually, mixing thoroughly; then add vanilla. Put about 1 tablespoon Grape-Nuts in each custard cup; fill with custard mixture. Place cups in pan of hot water. Bake in slow oven (325°F.) 40 to 45 minutes, or until knife inserted comes out clean.

This may be baked in greased baking dish. Sprinkle Grape-Nuts in bottom of dish and add custard mixture. Bake in pan of hot water and bake in slow oven (325°F.) about 1 hour. Serve plain or with cream or sweetened crushed fruit. Makes 5 servings.

Page Powdered As Yanks Lose

CHICAGO (AP)—Dave Philley hammered a home run with two out and two on off Joe Page in the last of the ninth inning to give Chicago White Sox a 5 to 2 victory over New York Yankees. The Sox had put together two singles and a walk for a run after the first two men had been retired to tie the score before Philley's smash.

Hyperbole Wins Secondary Event At Ascot Meeting

ASCOT, Eng. (BUP)—J. Rank's Hyperbole beat Sir Percy Lorraine's Wat Tyler by a head today in the Royal Hunt Cup, second most important event scheduled at the famous Ascot meeting.

Hyperbole, guided by Australian jockey A. Bressley, came from behind to win in the final yards. Wat Tyler, the favorite, was ridden by Gordon Richards, English jockey champion. Burpham, owned by the Duke of Norfolk, finished five lengths farther back in third place.

The seven-furlong, 155-yard event, one of the heaviest betting handicaps of the four-day meeting, drew 20 entries. Hyperbole carried 120 pounds, Wat Taylor 128 and Burpham 117. The victory was worth 3,000 sterling ($8,400) to Rank, a millionaire flour miller and brother of movie magnate James Arthur Rank.

Rescue Job

A rescue blimp flies over a small cabin cruiser, stranded on a spillway in the swift waters of the Allegheny River, near Oakmont, Pa., in which four persons drowned. Four others were rescued.
